CAMPUS LIFE

What I remember best about last year is all the good times
I shared with friends.
Criss-crossing the campus between classes,
we'd meet and talk
and laugh
and make plans for the weekend.
What marvelous memories those times now make — a frosty autumn football game being first at registration music at a mid-December dance the hectic week of rush.
The faces and the places and the things I did last year are only memories now.
But we had good times then,
my friends and I.

Arlington Merits University Status

A true university embraces a wide range of interests, pursuits, and ideas. More than a mere training institute, the modern college worthy of the term university must instill new ideas, develop thoughts, and formulate principles in an atmosphere of freedom. The University of Texas at Arlington is approaching this ideal, as it must if it is to merit its designation.

In a skit based on "The Sound of Music," Delta Zeta actives join hands with the rushees and sing their own versions of popular tunes.

Delta Tau Delta initiates submit to the ordeals of pledgeship at one of the fraternity's meetings.

Celebrating with a hug are En Ami Peggy Van Dorn and pledge Susan Elder, who has just received her bid.

Avolonte actives entertain prospective pledges with a song and dance routine at the Saturday afternoon skit party.

Three Hundred Join in Rush Activities

Fraternity and sorority rush became a way of life for 109 girls and 190 boys this fall. Rush began with an open house held by the Panhellenic Council. Rushees visited with representatives from each sorority and asked questions concerning rush. Both sororities and fraternities held rush parties and smokers during the week, which ended with a candlelight ceremony held for all pledges.

At the end of the week, bids were received and pledges paired off with active members from the fraternities and sororities to begin their semester-long pledgeship. Candlelight ceremonies, Monday night meetings, and long weeks of both playful and earnest servitude followed for the lucky pledges.

Fifty-seven girls pledged six sororities: Avolonte, Delta Zeta, En Ami, Les Choisies, San Souci, and Phi Mu. Social fraternities on campus are Alpha Sigma Chi, Delta Tau Delta, Delta Upsilon, Kappa Alpha, Kappa Sigma, and Phi Gamma Delta.

Kent Gardner (center), Inter-Fraternity Council sponsor, oversees rush registration with Norman Tindall, Mike Barnett, John Lamond, and Miles Bryant.

A pair of registering students encounter the perplexities of scheduling classes.

Promotion booths set up at the end of the registration lines lure members for organizations and rushees for sororities and fraternities.

The normally near-deserted bookstore becomes a bustling center of activity as tens of thousands of books are processed each semester.

UT ARLINGTON ENROLLMENT SETS RECORD

The first of many long lines of registration lengthens outside the cafeteria. An all-time high of 11,873 filed through to enroll.

Burley Bearden, outstanding football coach of the SLC two years, coached the Southland Conference champs, winning the bid for the post-conference bowl game.

Punting specialist Skipper Butler boots an extra point in the game against the North Dakota Bisons, ending in a 13-0 Rebel win.

Ski Trip Means Fun In Colorado

Jack Powell, UT Arlington senior, leads students from several mid-western colleges in a folk singing session after a day's skiing on the slopes.

Forty-two students journeyed to Winter Park, Colorado, for a five day, between-semester ski session. Sponsoring the group were Dr. and Mrs. U. O. Herrmann and Dr. L. C. Mathias. The Student Activities Board organized the mid-semester trip.

The group stayed at the Timber House Lodge in Winter Park, about an hour's drive into the mountains west of Denver. The Inn, distinctly German in atmosphere, is owned by a German immigrant couple, Mr. and Mrs. Timerhaus.

Over half of the group had never skied; every action was an obstacle. How to get off the ski lift once you get on? How to hold the ski poles? How to get up after you fall down? How to muster enough courage to ski down a steep beginner's slope?

Casualties on the trip were limited to a split metal ski pole and a snapped ski.

Ted Trept, senior, feels that skiing is not nearly as hard as the snow is soft.

Timber House Lodge, where UT Arlington students stayed was the perfect blend of German food and European atmosphere in the Rocky Mountain.

How to get off the lift worries prospective skiers during their ride from the bottom of the slopes to the very top.

A group from the Universities of Colorado and Nebraska entertained UT Arlington students.

Ski lessons are available at the slopes, but some students prefer to get a head start on learning.

Three police cars escorted the Rebels from campus on their spirit ride to Commerce for the ETSU football game. Nearly 60 cyclists, riding in 15-minute shifts, pedaled for nine hours and arrived early for kick-off.

Sixty Rebs Pedal To ETSU Game

Some sixty Rebel Rousers, students, and cheerleaders banded together for the "Great Bicycle Ride" from Arlington to Commerce for the East Texas State University game this year. The crew arrived on time to cheer the Rebels on to a 7-6 victory over the Lions.

The marathon bicycle trip, sponsored by Rebel Rousers to build spirit and spearheaded by Rusty Russell, covered a distance of 80 miles, but only three riders made the entire distance. David Watson and Susie Wine rode a tandem bike more than 50 miles.

Larry Bauer, who rode his bicycle all the way to Commerce and back, was named "Top Cyclist" for his efforts. He is practicing for the 1968 Olympics.

Sandra Griffin rubs on linament to ease the leg cramps of Rusty Russell, weary rider who coordinated "The Great Ride."

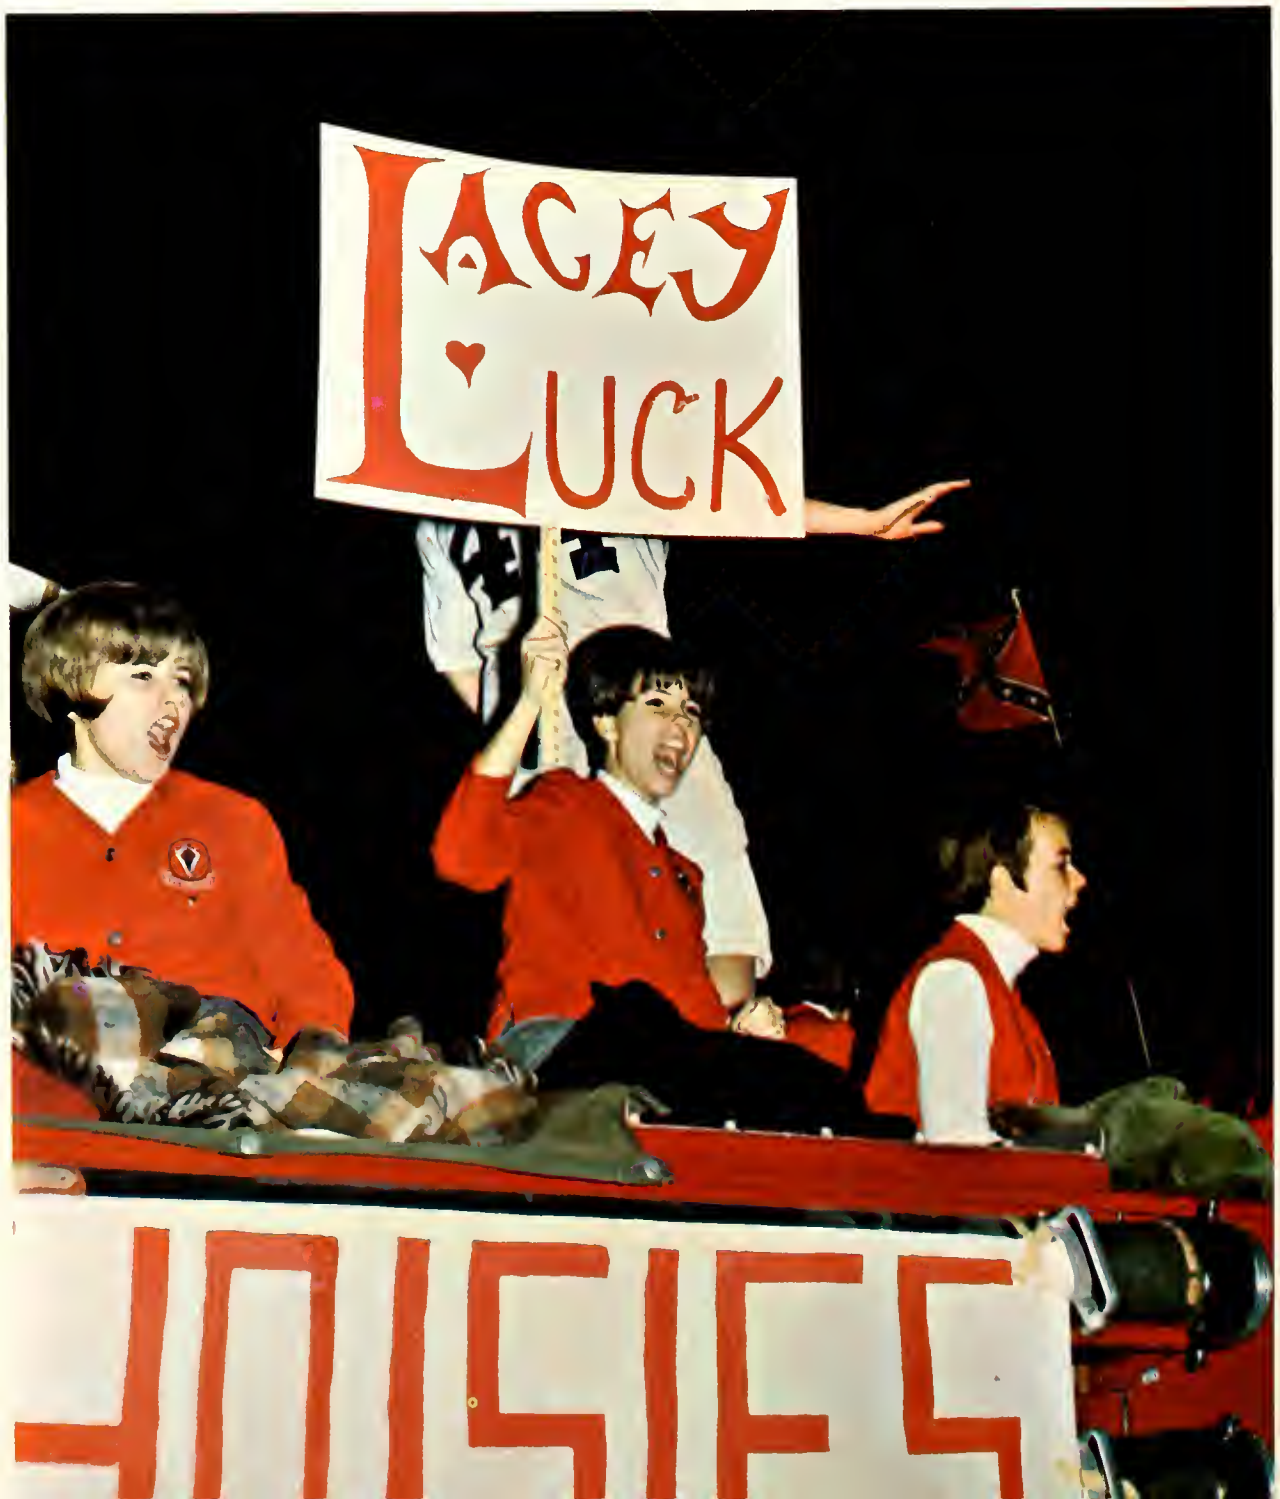
Rebel Rouser Johnny Pechal complained about the heat on the day-long bicycle journey and was obligingly doused with ice water by friends who traveled in cars.

Bicycles which collapsed from the rigors of the 80-mile ride are loaded onto trailers which traveled alongside the group.

As the bicycle caravan passes through downtown Dallas, Susie Wine and Sally Soldo join disc jockey Charlie Van Dyke at KLIF radio station for on-the-air progress reports of the ride.

Lory Bowles, former Delta Sigma Pi sweetheart, joins the Homecoming parade on the club float, winner of the Grand Marshall's Award.

Laceys Frances Miller, Linda Ovrick, and Barbara Pitney cheer on the Rebels with their float.



Homecoming 1967 Opens November

Thousands of UT Arlington students and alumni celebrated the biggest Homecoming in the school's history on November 2, 3, and 4. An overflow crowd turned out for the bonfire dance on Thursday to swing to the sounds of Le Cirque and the Southwest FOB. A night-time parade through downtown Arlington featuring lighted floats preceded the bonfire on Friday. Winners of the bonfire competition for collecting the most wood were Phi Gamma Delta among the fraternities and Trinity House for the dormitories.

Climax of the three-day celebration was Saturday night's football game when the Rebels tangled with the Wildcats of Abilene Christian College and whipped them. In pre-game activities winners of the dormitory decoration and float competitions were named and trophies were awarded. Half-time was lenghtened to accommodate special announcements in which three outstanding UT Arlington exes were honored and the winner of the Miss Dixie Belle title was revealed.

Finalist Debbie Maddox looks on as Jorja Jackson, Miss Dixie Belle, accepts congratulations at half-time for her honor.

Crowds of spectators, chilled by the November night, are lured by the warmth of whirling, slapping flames to the Homecoming bonfire.

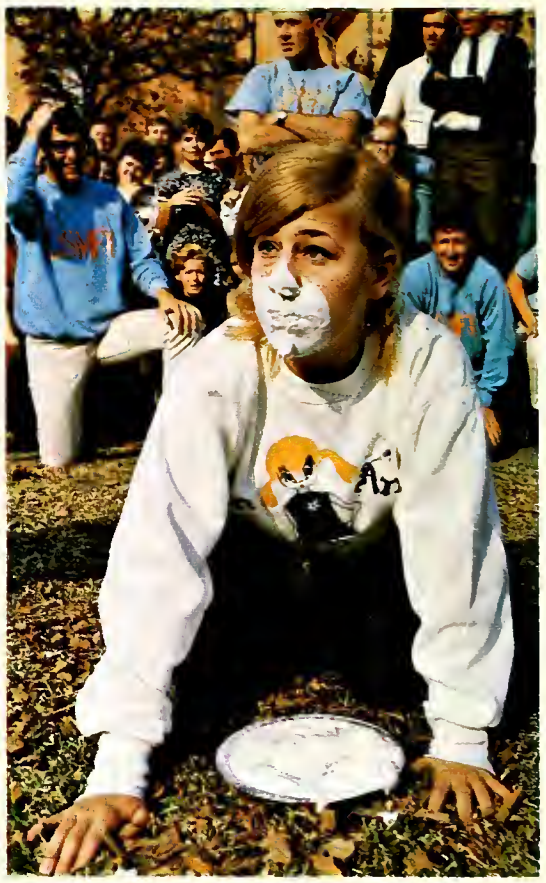
Homecoming . . .

A Date With Tradition

Vicki Loock and Tom Sheppard were announced Mr. and Miss Rebel Spirit at the bonfire by the cheerleaders.

Fifteen floats and 78 other entries joined the Rebel Swimming Team in celebrating Homecoming with a night-time parade through downtown Arlington.

Homecoming enthusiasts turn their backs to the heat of the bonfire, casting reflections in pools of water hosed by watchful firemen.

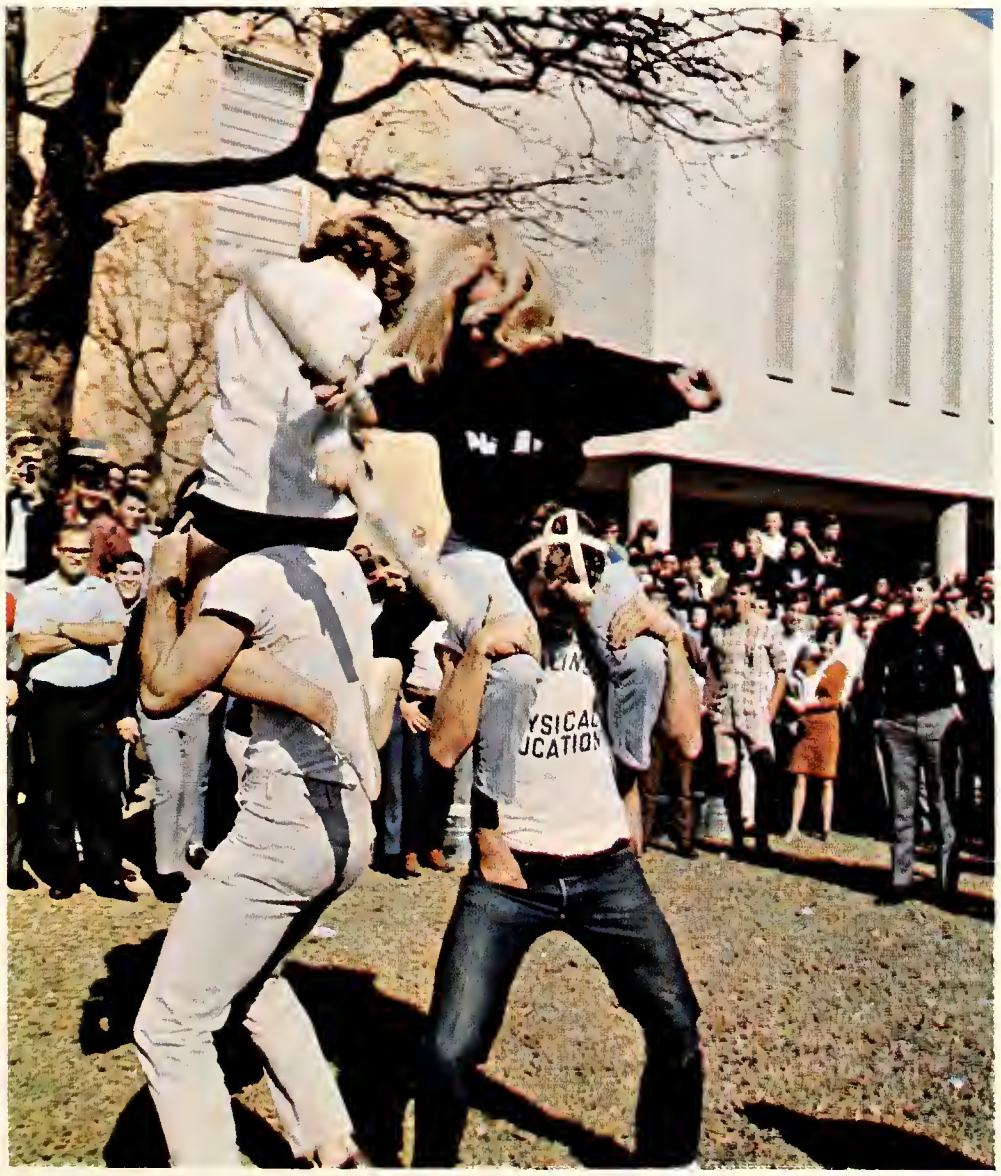


A false start left En Ami Sherry Allen with a surprised expression and her pickle still hidden in the pan of whipped cream.

Entries in the toga contest were Melanie Meier, Phi Mu; Laurie Innes, Delta Zeta; Emily Emerson, Avolonte; Melanie Wood, Les Choisies; Linda Garza, En Ami; and Merry Montgomery, Sans Souci. Avolonte took first place honors.

In a lively round of musical tubs, sorority representatives circled to the tunes and then plunged into wash tubs filled with water, flour, corn flakes, raw eggs, and syrup. En Ami's Janet Hardin won the event.

Climax of the Winter Olympics was the spoon dig, in which the six sorority presidents sifted through 1200 pounds of flour in search of spoons engraved with the club's names. Sans Souci's Debbie Maddox plowed fastest and won.



Armed with folded newspapers and attempting to smash their opponents' eggs are Joan Stott, riding En Ami's beau, Jim Foster; and Lory Bowles, atop Randy Hamilton, Phi Mu's beau. Phi Mu triumphed, and En Ami placed second.

En Ami Sweeps Winter Olympics

Flying flour and broken eggs turned sorority members into bedraggled contestants for the Winter Olympics on Friday, November 10. The annual competition among the six sororities, again sponsored by Alpha Sigma Chi fraternity, was climaxed by the announcement of the winners at a dance held that night at the Cabana Hotel in Dallas. En Ami collected the most points and won the 1967 trophy. Sans Souci placed second, and Avolonte took third.

Speed, strength, and ingenuity were called for throughout the afternoon as scores of girls donned sweatshirts and cut-off jeans to join in the games. In some of the traditional events again staged, sorority representatives threw the discus, bobbed for apples, and raced tricycle chariots. A new contest featured was the ice cream feed in which blindfolded pairs raced to hand-feed their partners a pint of softened ice cream.

Final event of the day was the spoon dig. Sorority presidents, first wetted down, scuffled through hundreds of pounds of flour in search of spoons engraved with their clubs' names. After the six spoons had been found, chaos erupted as Alfasigs, sorority beaus, and spectators were caught, drenched, and flung into the flour.

Two musical groups, the Coachmen and the Buster Smith Orchestra, entertained at the Snowball to provide a change of beat for the dancers.

Snowball Honors Beauty and Beast

A "Winter Wonderland" set the mood for the Snowball on December 16 in the student center upstairs ballroom and snack bar. The ballroom featured blue lighting and a large white flocked Christmas tree with blue decorations. The snack bar was decorated as "Santa's Workshop." Buster Smith and his Orchestra provided soft music in the ballroom and the Coachmen played rock music in the snack bar.

A highlight of the Snowball was the announcement of the Beauty and Beast winners. Sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, the contest had 21 candidates, with ballots cast by penny votes. The $1100 taken in was used to buy a color television for the upstairs lounge. Beast was Dale Smith from ROTC, and Phi Mu Pat McGuire was Beauty. The Levee Committee, headed by Dana Rittiman, sponsored the dance.

Clusters of voters gathered around the A Phi O display in the student center to evaluate the 21 beauty and beast contestants and cast their penny votes.

Phi Mu's Pat McGuire and the ROTC candidate, Dale Smith, won the Beauty and Beast titles. David Gaines accepted the trophy and camera for Dale.

Alpha Phi Omega totaled the pennies collected from a week of voting in the Beauty and the Beast contest and purchased a color television set. Mrs. Carolyn Waddell, sponsor of the Student Activities Board, accepted the gift for the students at the Snowball.

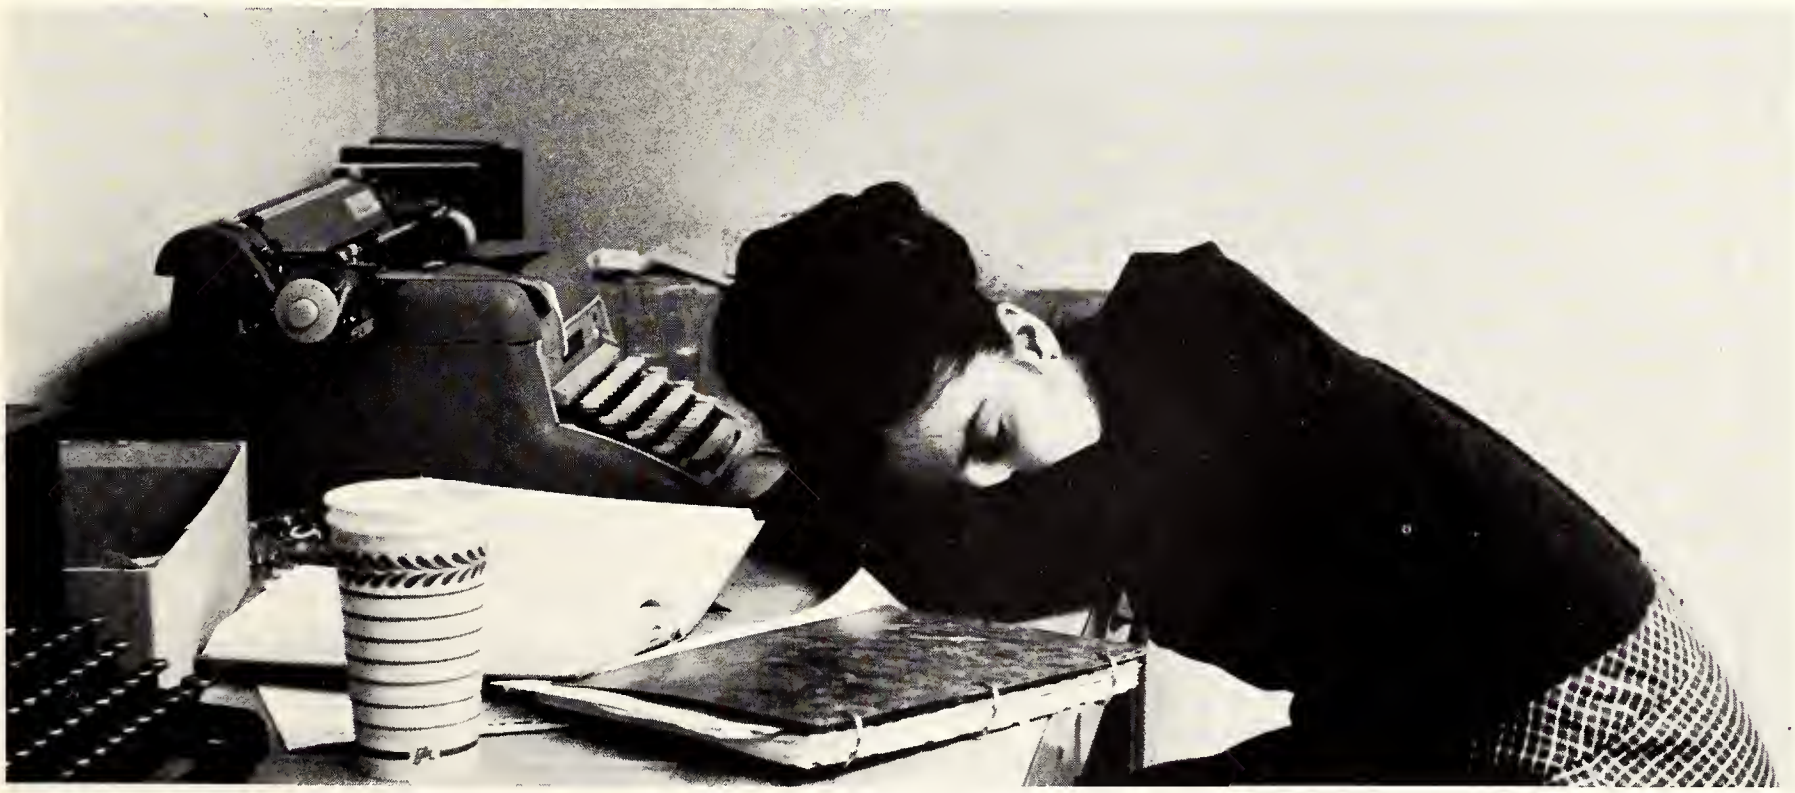
Finals, Commencement Dominate Mid-term

Seated on the stage during the commencement program, faculty professors and the A Cappella Choir listen as President Jack Woolf addresses the graduating class of seniors.

Gallons of coffee, furnished by SAB, helped students weather mid-term finals.

Winding toward the commencement exercises held in Texas Hall, nearly 500 graduating seniors participated in the January program.

Tassels of white culminate years of effort toward achieving a college degree while maintaining a home.



After hours of studious concentration for mid-semester finals, fatigue conquers, demanding rest in spite of impending examinations.

Alpha Sigma Chi fraternity members assembled at the Campus Canto on Sunday to serenade a lovely lady who appeared on stage.

Greek Weekend Held for First Time

Avolonte sorority won first prize with their song and dance at the Canto.

UT Arlington Greeks staged a clean-up, dance-in, sing-out campaign this spring, the last weekend in March. The activities were a part of the first official Greek Weekend to be held on campus.

Activities began on Friday when the social sororities and fraternities visited the Arlington Masonic Home to stage a clean-up project on the grounds of the home. On Friday night, Greeks attended the Blue-White game for all students.

On Saturday, a semi-formal dance for Greeks and their dates at the Marriott Motor Hotel in Dallas was held. Pledges from both the fraternities and sororities were presented at this event.

Climaxing the weekend activities, Delta Tau Delta sponsored the Campus Canto on Sunday afternoon. Each fraternity and sorority presented a singing program. After the Canto, the sororities held a reception for parents of the Greeks.

Oblivious to others, a couple enjoys the Greek Ball.

En Ami presents their musical contribution at the Canto.

Mike Baylor (10) barely eludes Terry Stuart (81) in the Blue-White clash.

Student Center — Hub of Campus Activity

November's Winter Olympics events were again held in front of the student center where crowds gathered to watch the sororities compete.

Spontaneous folk singing sessions sometimes form among friends with guitars who gather for lunch in the student center.

Business in the bookstore booms during registration. Also in the wing of the student center is the exchange store and a cafeteria.

At noon on autumn Fridays Rebels gather on the steps of the student center to join with the cheerleaders to inspire the football team.

Kathy Christal and Mike Ward watch with apprehension.

Belonging is important to me.
To know that I am bound to a promise or a person or a cause or my career is to know the thrill of purpose and the need for dedication.
In the very same way
I belong to groups with others, others who have joined themselves together in a friendly fellowship.
Perhaps we seek the same profession or we live together or believe alike
or we're all just friends.
Anyway, we share a common spirit.
And I belong; and I am glad.

Student Government

Thirty representatives from the student body serve as members of Student Government. Fourteen of these representatives are elected each spring for a two-year term. Council members must have an overall grade point average of 1.5.

Student Government sponsored Howdy Week last September. Activities included an All-Freshman Assembly, a street dance, a get-acquainted party and a Howdy Dance. Buddy McMahon was chairman for Howdy Week activities.

Student Government is divided into four committees. The Campus Committee is responsible for the beautification of the campus. The Communications Committee releases information regarding Student Government activities to students, faculty, and area schools. The Research, Evaluation, and Development Committee promotes school spirit and sponsors all campus elections. This committee also makes all rules concerning elections, including specifications for campaign signs and qualifications for candidates.

Signs of class elections in front of the student center are one facet of Student Government activities.

Decorations in the student center are part of the House Committee's duties.

Student Activities Board

Most non-fraternity activities on campus are sponsored by the Student Activities Board.

Nine committees of varying numbers of members are the main divisions within the Student Activities organization. The committees are COLA, a council on leadership advancement; Fine Arts, responsible for cultural events; Hospitality, serving as host to college functions; House, in charge of exhibits in the student center; Recreation, specializing in well-spent leisure time; Ideas and Issues, bringing special lectures and films for student enlightenment; Levee, planning all campus-held dances; Special Events, coordinating all-school activities; and Entertainment, selecting films and performers for campus entertainment.

In a constantly expanding program, the Student Activities Board uses approximately three dollars of each activity fee in entertaining, informing, and representing the UT Arlington student body.

SAB is a member of the Association of College Unions which is an international organization created for the mutual benefit of student groups.

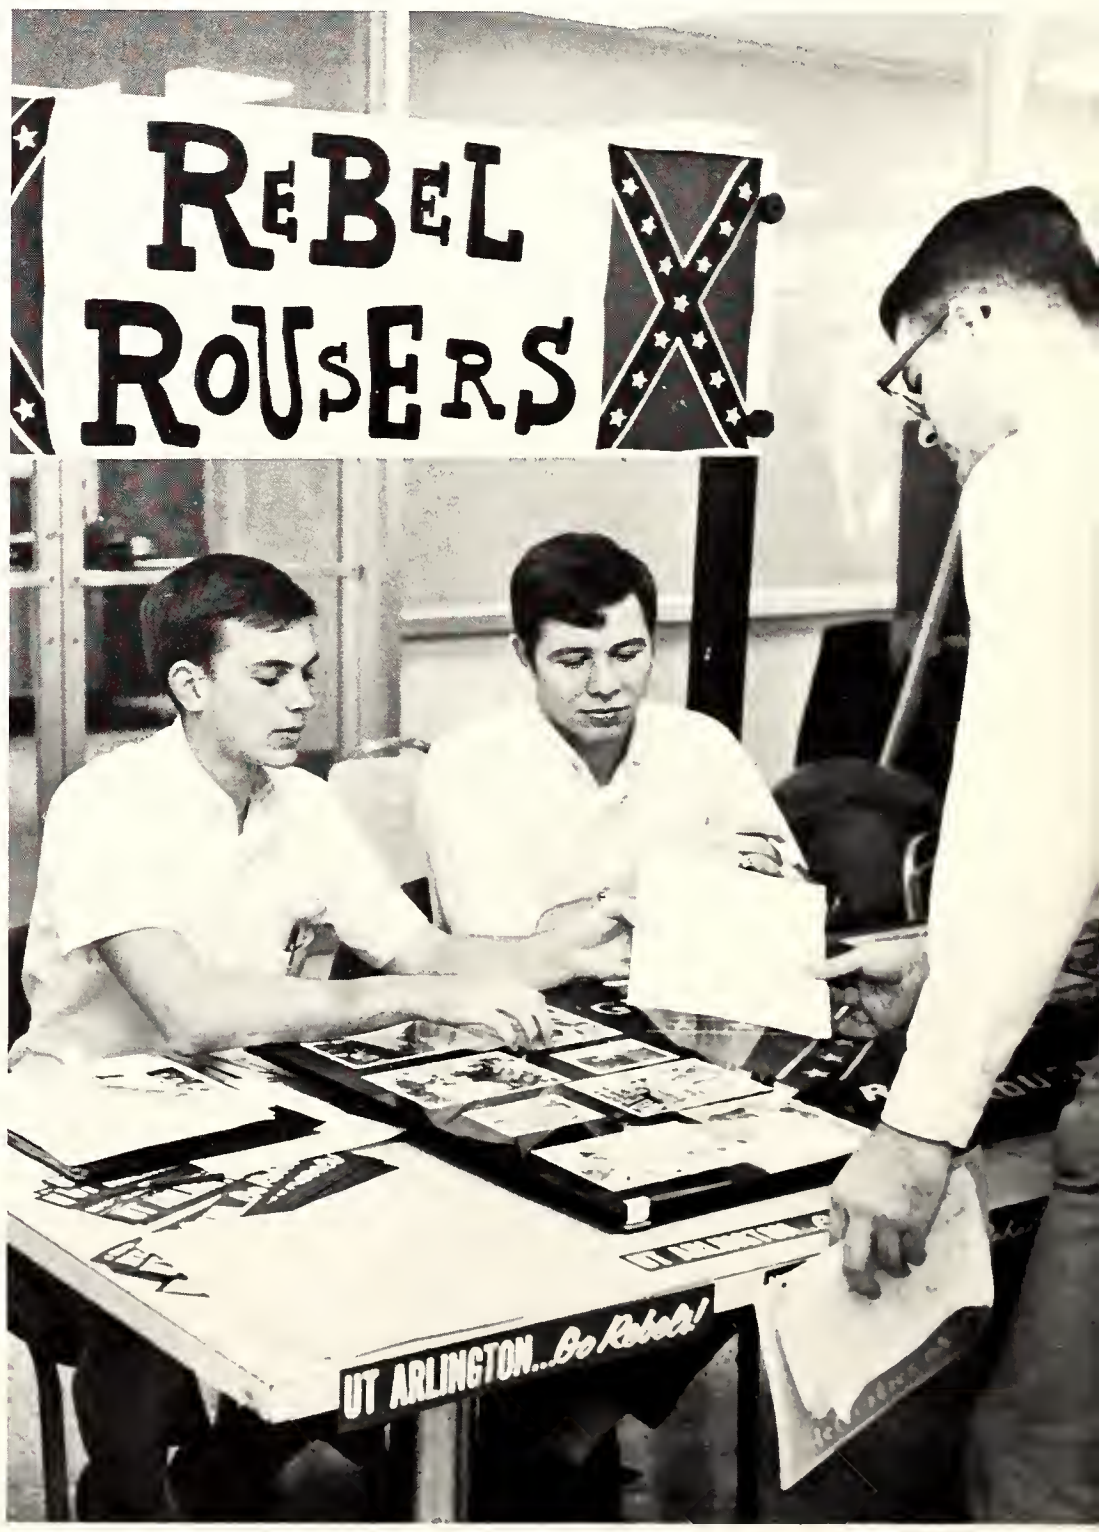
The Association, a major popular group, performed on campus under SAB sponsorship.

Rebel Rousers

Rebel spirit is pushed on and off-campus with the leadership of 150 Rebel Rousers. The group this year organized the bicycle ride to the East Texas State University football game and supervised the gigantic Homecoming bonfire. With an attendance of at least 75 at every meeting, Rebel Rousers also sponsor the card section at football games. Requirements for membership are payment of dues and lots of enthusiasm.

Nearly 60 spirited Rebels cycled to Commerce from Arlington for the ETSU football game of November 30. Rebel Rousers sponsored "The Great Ride."

Pat Remington, Steve Will, Jim Robertson, and Steve DiScillio top the Homecoming bonfire wood with president Tom Shepard. Other officers are Mal Prince, vice-president; Ivanka Taborsky, treasurer; Joy Sefler, secretary,; and Pam Hollinger, reporter.



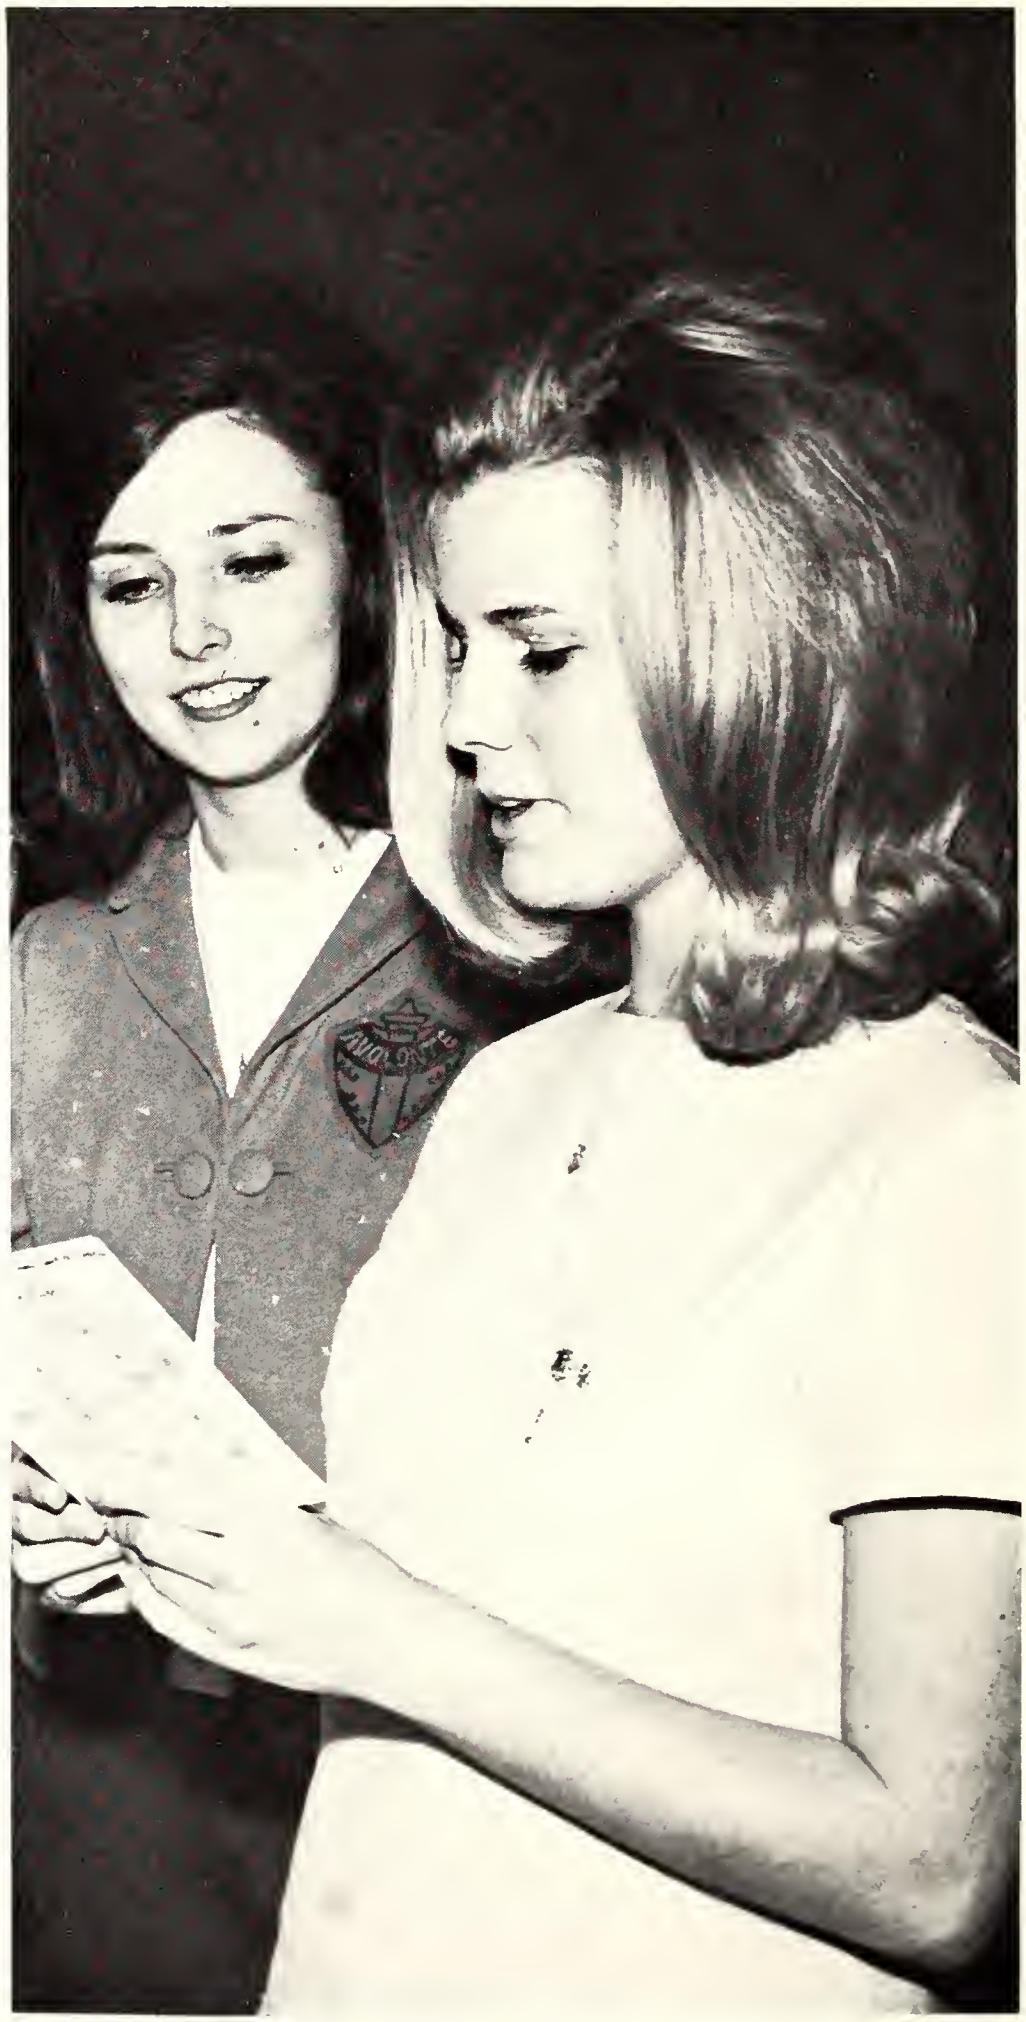
Rebel Rousers set up a promotion booth at the end of the registration line each semester to interest new prospects in joining their spirit organization.

FRATERNITIES and SORORITIES

Panhellenic Council

The governing body for UT Arlington's six sororities is the Panhellenic Council. Special activities included a Panhellenic float for the Homecoming parade, the Pledge Presentation Ball, and rush.

Dean Nancy Thorpe was advisor for the group in the fall. Mrs. Zoe Hess sponsored the Council. Officers for the year were Eileen McCluskey, fall president; Lory Bowles, spring president; Pat Taylor, fall vice-president; Mary Jane McCarthy, spring vice-president; Judy Watson, secretary; and Jamie Hobbs, treasurer.



Heading the slate of Panhellenic Council officers for the spring semester were delegates Mary Jane McCarthy, vice-president, and Lory Bowles, president.

Interfraternity Council

Seven campus fraternities elect three representatives each to serve on the Interfraternity Council. This year the group participated in rush, entered a float in the Homecoming parade, and sponsored Greek Week.

As Assistant Dean of Student Life, Kent Gardner sponsors IFC. Officers for the year are Bill Slusser, president; David Watson, vice-president; Bruce Hutson, secretary; Bill Jodon, treasurer; and Miles Bryant, parliamentarian and sergeant-at-arms.

Alfasigs also competed in intramurals, helped build and guard the bonfire, and joined in the Campus Canto. Fifteen fall pledges and 40 members are sponsored by Dr. E. C. Bock and Ernest Leister.

Delta Tau Delta

Delta Tau Delta became a national fraternity when Sigma Delta Phi and Aegeidae merged in March, 1967. The Delts, winners of the 1967 IFC Scholarship Trophy, participated in the Campus Canto. Jan Wallace and Cliff Wood sponsor the 45 Delts and 25 fall pledges.

Kappa Sigma

In the spring, 1967, Delta Chi Omega affiliated with a national fraternity and became Kappa Sigma, the first national social fraternity on campus with a full charter. Chena Gilstrap, head of the athletic department, sponsors the 44 actives and the 25 fall pledges.

Group activities included a work project at the Eastern Star Home and a drive for funds to send UT Arlington athletes to the Olympics. Kappa Sigs also gave a symbolic owl to Chi Omega sorority at the East Texas football game and presented a new Rebel flag to the school at a home game.

Phi Gamma Delta

Affiliation with an international fraternity in March, 1966, changed the name of Chi Chi Chi to Phi Gamma Delta. The Fijis continued sponsorship of the Old South Hat Grab and joined with a sorority in a Christmas party and an Easter egg hunt for Lena Pope Home. The group, sponsored by Dr. Glen Rodgers, added 19 pledges to its 44 actives in fall rush.

Individual honors go to Gerald Baker, Avolonte beau; Scott Taylor, cheerleader and favorite; and Bruce Hutson, IFC secretary. Officers are Gerald Baker, president; Bob Hackler, treasurer; Barty Boydston, recording secretary; Curt Whitesel, corresponding secretary, and Burl Brown, historian.

Avolonte

Oldest club on campus is Avolonte, established as the BOB Club in 1923. With Mrs. Bertie Acker and Mrs. Elizabeth Banowsky as sponsors, the Avos provided food and entertainment for fraternities guarding the bonfire, helped support an orphan, modeled in an alumnae fashion show charity project, and joined other campus groups in a program for the Terrill Mental Institute.

Among the 28 actives and 13 pledges, Susie Wine was named cheerleader, favorite, and Jody sweetheart; Cindy Sabatucci was ROTC sweetheart and favorite; Linda McDonald, majorette and ROTC Band sweetheart; Cindy Hall, Trinity Dorm sweetheart; Jeri Mahan, Reveille Beauty; Pat Cloughly, ROTC sweetheart; Cindy Richey, Pi Sigma Epsilon sweetheart; Mary Ellen Welles, Little Miss Egypt; and Jorja Jackson, Miss Dixie Belle.

Officers are Dana Ascue, president; Karen Garner, vice-president; Pat Taylor, treasurer; Jane Loiry, secretary; Becky Connatser, secretary; Micki Key, parliamentarian; Jorja Jackson, song teacher; and Sherra Rayfield, art chairman.

Delta Zeta

Formerly Zongola, Delta Zeta affiliated with the nation's largest sorority in number of chapters in the spring, 1967. The group began its first full year under that name with 35 active members and seven pledges. Sponsored by Dr. Mary Lee Alford, DZ's participated in the APO show at Terrell and organized a gift lift to Viet Nam. The girls also competed in intramurals, Winter Olympics, and the Old South Days festivities.

Members with campus honors include Joyce Watters, Brazos House sweetheart, and Jamie Hobbs, Panhellenic treasurer. Officers for the year are Dorothy Smith, president; Annabelle Corboy, vice-president, rush chairman; Toni Hart, vice-president, pledge training; Ann Price, treasurer; Linda Dodgen, corresponding secretary; Terri Alford, recording secretary; and Joyce Watters, historian.

En Ami

Capturing first place honors for the 1967 Winter Olympics was En Ami, which had also placed first in the Old South Games and won the Scholarship Award the previous year. After fall rush, 10 pledges joined the 28 actives under the sponsorship of Mrs. Lil Williamson and Mrs. Ernestine Sewell.

Individually, Susan Behnke was honored as an ROTC sweetheart; Linda Hamilton as an ROTC sweetheart and 1966 Corps Sweetheart; Jan Hart as a Reveille Beauty; and Sally Soldo as cheerleader, favorite, an ROTC sweetheart, and runner-up in the National Cheerleader Contest. En Ami officers are Ann Reagan, president; Ivanka Taborsky, first vice-president; Tina Barnett, second vice-president; Peggy Van Dorn, secretary; and Sharon Camp, treasurer.

Phi Mu

First national sorority to come to the UT Arlington campus was Phi Mu, which incorporated the locals Karuso Pteros and Koshari and formed a colony in April, 1967. Sponsored by Mrs. M. C. Hamilton, the 27 members have a Blood Bank as a campus project and the SS Hope hospital ship as their national philanthropy. They also give scholarships and loans.

Distinguished Phi Mus include Lory Bowles, Reveille Beauty, ROTC sweetheart, and Civil Engineering sweetheart; Karen Pollard, head majorette; and Eileen McCluskey, Panhellenic president. Officers for the sorority are Mary Ellen Venturi, president; Susan Franklin, vice-president; Pat McGuire, secretary; Kathy Gibbs, treasurer; Cathie Sue Wincovitch, membership director; and Jean Crist, pledge director.

Alpha Phi Omega

Since the spring, 1964, Alpha Phi Omega has been established on campus as a national service fraternity. Twenty-five actives and 21 pledges are sponsored by Dean Charles McDowell, Elwood Preiss, Harry Meissner, Dr. Floyd Cash, and Dr. Allen Saxe. All college men who have a desire to provide service to their chapter, campus, community, and nation are eligible for membership.

A Phi O's maintain campus services in the forms of a book and slide rule registration, ramps for the handicapped students, and a ride board in the student center. Sponsoring an annual talent show for retarded children or mental patients and the initiation of the Beauty and the Beast Contest are two other major undertakings of the group.

Honors held by A Phi O's include Glenn Day, Student Activities Board president, and Chuck Gifford, cheerleader. Fraternity officers are LeRoy Garcia, president; Larry Minter, first vice-president; Kerry Moseley, second vice-president; Jim Hampton, treasurer; Cecil Brewer, corresponding secretary; and Dana Rittiman, recording secretary.

Delta Sigma Pi

On campus since 1965, Delta Sigma Pi added 19 pledges to its 21 active members this fall. The fraternity conducts a professional program which hosts leading business executives as guest speakers at informal meetings, and also hosts a social program in correlation with its professional endeavors.

In 1967 Delta Sigs won first place trophy in the Dixie Olympics, claimed the first place Chapter Efficiency Index Award, and received a Civic Improvement Award from the city of Arlington.

Among the honored members of Delta Sigma Pi are Johnny Chaloupka, Distinguished Military Student Award; Danny Copeland, ROTC company commander; and Sheldon Gerron, ROTC company executive officer. Officers of the group are John M. Trapani, III, president; Johnny Chaloupka, senior vice-president; Andrew T. Bryan, vice-president; Sid Curry, secretary; Roger M. Floyd, treasurer; Danny Helms, historian; and Walter Donaldson, chancellor. James F. Cook is sponsor. Suzanne Duckett is sweetheart.

Pi Sigma Epsilon

Oldest national fraternity on campus is Pi Sigma Epsilon, which is sponsored by the Fort Worth Sales and Marketing Executives. Established here in 1962, the group now has 18 members and nine fall pledges. Pi Sigs this year sponsored a speech by J. Lee Johnson, III, entered a float in the Homecoming parade, sent a delegation to the national convention in Atlanta, and engaged in various sales projects.

Sponsors for the group are Wayne Lucus and Burley Walker. Officers are Fred Dobbs, president; Ed Hopkins, vice-president; Robert Flaherty, secretary; Dennis Keating, treasurer; Nick Hays, sergeant-at-arms; Al Garza, speakers chairman; and Carl Busbee, special events chairman.

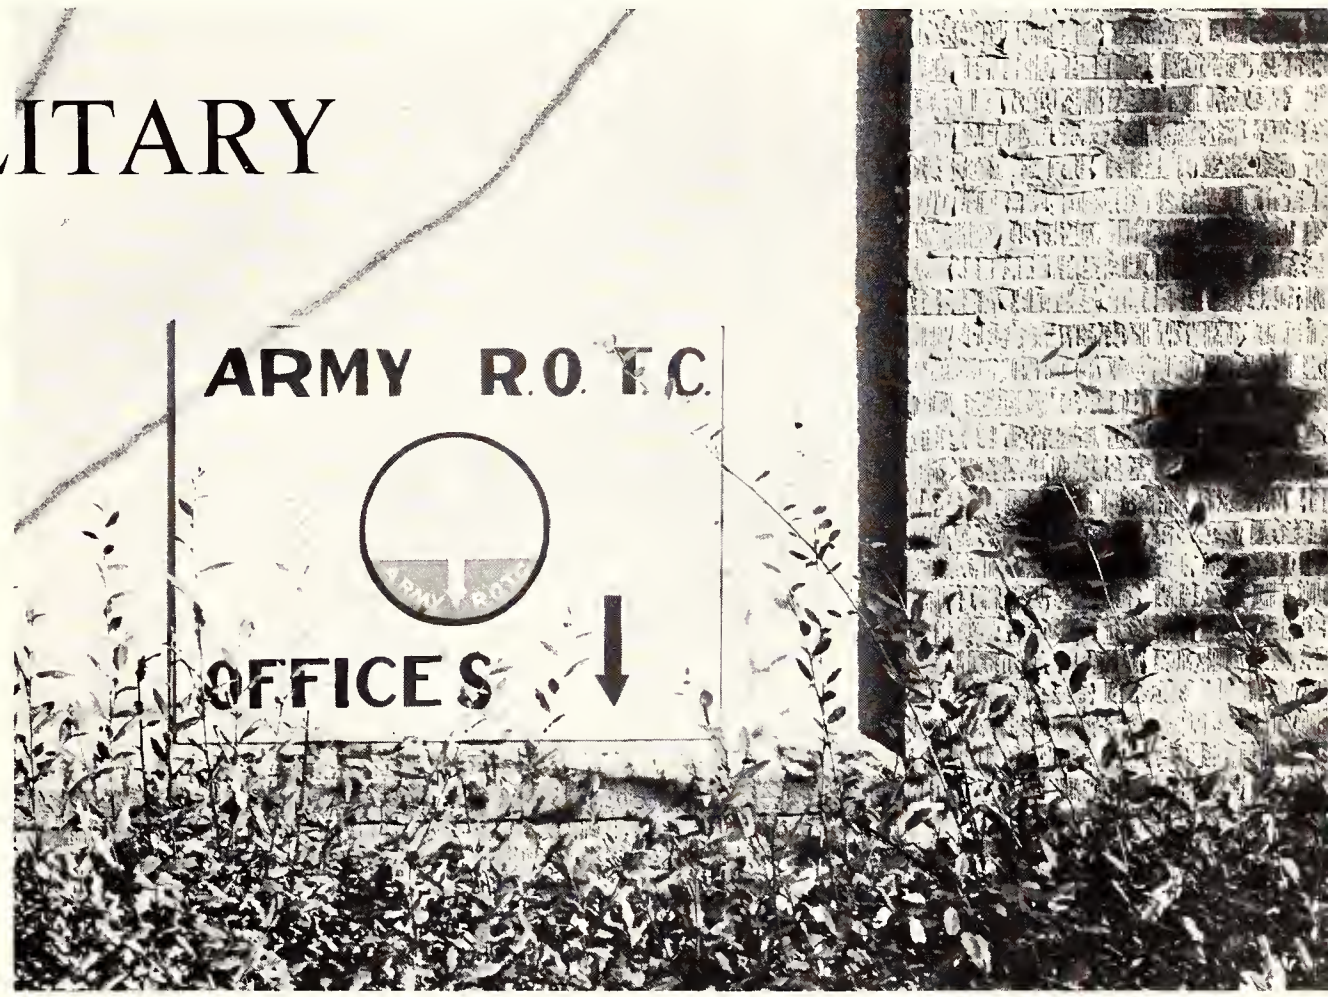
MILITARY



Cadets surround Jimmy Durante after a Miss Teenage America Pageant rehearsal at which the boys served as the candidates' escorts.

Seniors C/CPT Chuck Hutchison, C/CPT David Skipper, C/MAJ John Chaloupka, and C/LT COL Tommy Thompson discuss their appointment as ROTC Distinguished Military Students.

Military Training Prepares Cadets

With a new patch to match a new campus name, the UT Arlington Reserve Officer Training Corps increased their program to include the additional responsibilities of a larger school. Learning leadership techniques in exercising command enables the cadets to earn commissions as Second Lieutenants in the U.S. Army Reserve upon graduation. Student cadets also attend drills each week, as well as classes in history and law, administration, and logistics.

Both two-year and four-year courses are available to students, with attendance at summer camps a requirement for each. Four-year cadets are required to attend camp, held at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, this year, the summer before their senior year, while two-year cadets must attend a camp before both their junior and their senior years. Extracurricular activities such as the Sam Houston Rifles Drill Team, the Insurgent Team, the Pistol Team, and the Rifle Team are also available for interested cadets with a 1.0 grade point ratio.

Third-year sweetheart Susan Behnke, of Pistol Team, pins on C/MAJ David Anderson's Flight Wings after the November Fall Awards Ceremony.

Insurgent Team member Earnest Tebay applies camouflage makeup to Bob McClesky before one of the many IT tactical maneuvers held during the year.

The Sam Houston Rifles Drill Team begin their season of performances by leading the October Tyler Rose Festival Parade.

Linda Toone of the Insurgent Team exclaims in surprise at her election as Corps Sweetheart, and then smiles in delight from her throne as Battalion Commander C/LT COL Tommy Thompson awards her the sweetheart's bouquet.

Cadets and their dates dance to the swinging music of the Roy Huff Band.

Lt. Col. Eugene Shea and President Jack Wolfe greet guests in the military receiving line.

Corps Sweetheart Announced at Ball

Over 150 cadets and their dates attended the 1967 Military Ball. With a theme of "Holiday in Europe," the decorations supplied by the Officers Club included a drawing of the Eiffel Tower and a garden scene, a bridge and pond with goldfish, a replica of the British guard house, and a huge chandelier. The Roy Huff Band from Dallas supplied music for dancing, and refreshments were also available.

The new professor of military science, Lt. Col. Eugene A. Shea, received his first chance to meet the cadets at the December 9 ball. Having served in Japan, Europe, Korea, and Viet Nam, Lt. Col. Shea replaced Major Mark L. Reese who resumed his position as executive officer and associate professor of the department.

The highlight of the evening was the announcement of the Corps Sweetheart, Linda Toone from the Insurgent Team, and the Deputy Corps Sweetheart, Lory Bowles of "B" Company. The girls were elected by the 300 cadets of the corps.

Senior C/1LT Doug Sword and his date Freida Turrentine enjoy the beauty of the goldfish pond as they cross the wooden bridge at the 1967 Military Ball.

Lory Bowles from "B" Company, named Deputy Corps Sweetheart, turns to hug Cindy Sabatucci.

One of the 150 cadets attending the ball watches as his date chooses a souvenir of Chanel No. 5, Arpege, or My Sin perfume provided by the Officers Club.

Distinguished by its black and gold cord and white accessories, the Sam Houston Rifles Drill Team is now in its 35th year on campus. In the past 35 years, the Sam Houston Rifles have participated in 204 competitions of which 202 have been first place wins and the other two second place wins. To maintain their Fourth Army Drill Team Championship, the Jodies traveled to the Annual Houston Drill Team Competition, Washington's Birthday Celebration in Laredo, Texas A&M Competition in Bryan, San Antonio Fiesta Flambeau, and the Washington Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington state. The Jodies also sponsored the Fourth Army High School Drill Team Competition and participated in several parades. The Jodie Confederate salute originated by this team has become a tradition at all UT Arlington football games.

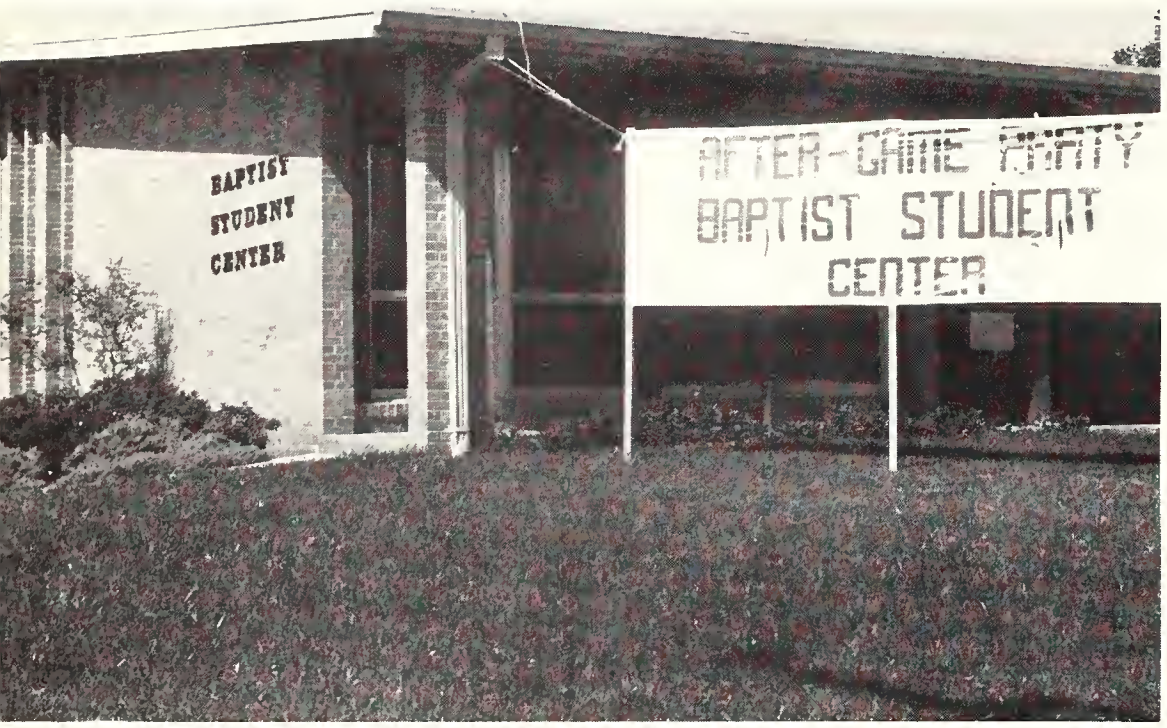
Baptist Center

Providing fellowship and devotionals for its 175 members is the purpose of the Baptist Student Union. Members of any denomination are invited to join. Jerry Bass, president, heads an executive council of 12 members which sponsors a fall and midwinter retreat, Friday missions, Noondays, and various social events. Members also represent the Union at the State Baptist Student Convention.



The Baptist Student Center, across from the SUB, is the scene of various social activities, including after-game parties during football season.

Daily devotionals, which include hymns, prayer, and speakers, draw students to the Baptist Student Center.

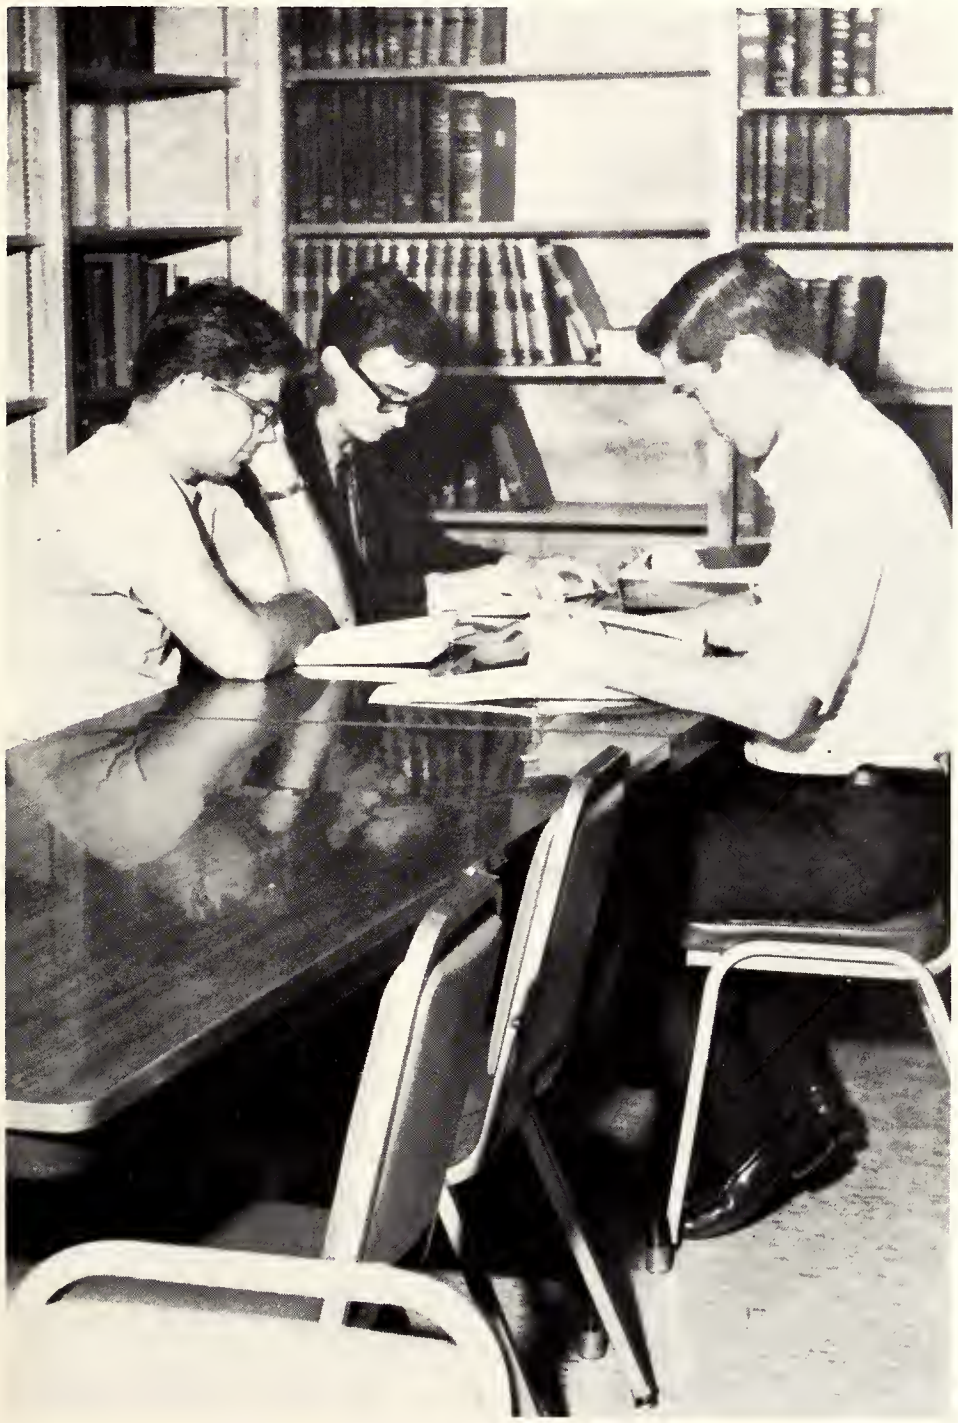
Under the sponsorship of William Harper and Paul W. Phillips, the Church of Christ Bible Chair provides a gathering place for members of the Church of Christ. The group provides a religious library and a Bible study course for anyone interested. Daily devotionals and luncheons are also sponsored by the Bible Chair.

Don Tubbs and Glynn Hartin use a new addition to the Bible Chair facilities.



Bible Chair members Bob Otta, Mike Clark, and Mike Powell use library facilities in the new wing of the Church of Christ Bible Chair building.

Members present daily devotionals with guest speakers.

The Christian Science College Organization distributes free literature from a rack centrally located in the student center.

Christian Science

Like most of the other campus religious clubs, the Christian Science College Organization provides a study lounge for its members. Special lectures are held throughout the year, although the club is small. Members hold weekly meetings in the Williamsburg Room of the Student Center.

Wesley Foundation

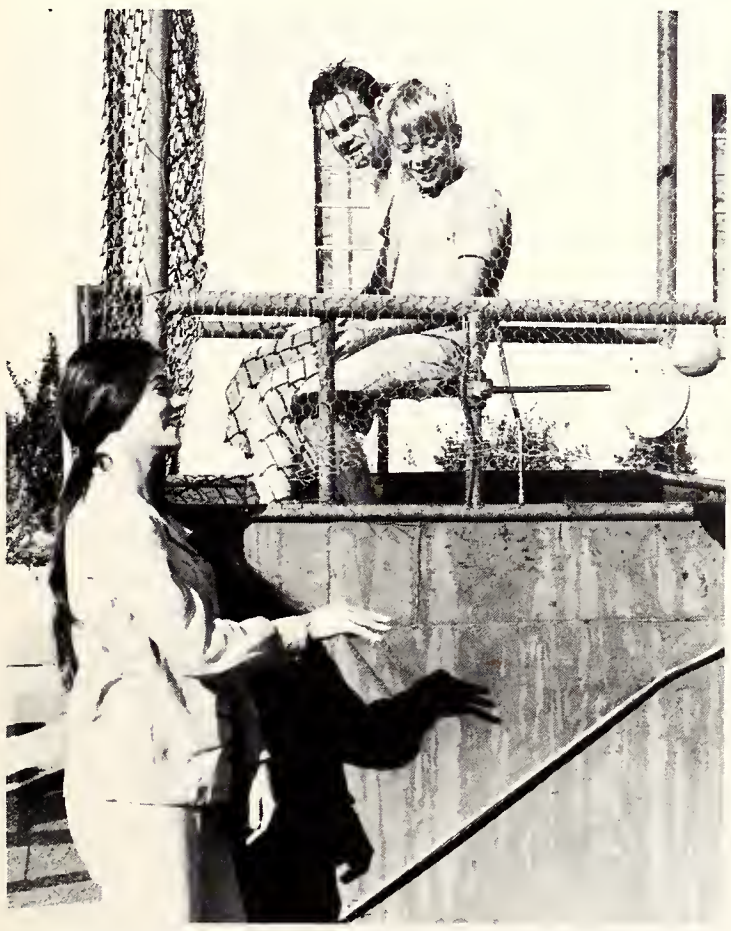
A week-long celebration highlighted the opening of the Wesley Foundation's new building this fall. Sponsored by Rev. Dick Lord, the club offers recreation and fellowship along with Friday Noon Luncheons. Dennis Burdette is president, Betty Kay Brown, secretary, and Richard Cottingham, treasurer.

The new Wesley Foundation building, completed December 1, was designed as a service for students. The two-story building features an activity room for recreation, a lounge area, and library. Classrooms and a conference room complete the facilities.

The Newman Club football players finished with a 7-2 record and third place in the intramurals.

Newman Club

Over 200 members actively support the Newman Club, an organization for the Catholic students at UT Arlington. The group, sponsored by Dr. J. E. Fairchild, participated in intramurals and Homecoming. They also held a St. Maria Goretti Bazaar.



Francia Marzonie tosses the ball to dunk the boys during Newman Club's annual St. Maria Goretti Bazaar.

ACM

Completing its third year on campus, the Association for Computing Machinery provides a means of communication between persons having an interest in computing machinery. The club strives to promote an increased knowledge in the science, design, development and construction of modern computers.

Chess Club

Chess enthusiasts may sharpen their skills through competition with members of the UT Arlington Chess Club. The club sent members to the National Collegiate Chess Tournament in New Jersey this year and staged a meet with UT Austin. James Bolen sponsors the 30 members.

The Chess Club meets each Friday afternoon to match skills. Fall officers are John Dycus, president; Jim Parker, treasurer; and Hugh West, statistician.

Chess Club members Jim Bowen, Bruce Thomas, and Johnny Throne consider a crucial move during a Friday meeting.

Art Club

With 47 members, the Art Club strives to "destroy apathy and create an extra interest in art outside the classroom." The club sponsors a student art show, poster contest, museum tours, and a student art forum. Regular meetings are held once a week to discuss art in general.

Circle K

A campus service organization, the Circle K Club serves the community by sending Christmas packages to each Arlington serviceman in Viet Nam and aids the college by handing out packets at registration. The group attended the Texas-Oklahoma Circle K convention and the international convention in Philadelphia. Membership, limited to men, numbers 15.

Debate Society

After four years on campus, the Debate Society participates in forensic tournaments in four states, with as many as ten tournaments in one year. At the major tournaments, as many as 70 colleges are represented. The 18 debaters are sponsored by David E. Groner of the speech department. Membership in the UT Arlington Debaters is open to any student interested.

Student AIA

To enrich academic experience through closer ties with the architectural profession is the purpose of the Student Chapter of the American Institute of Architects. Previously called the Architecture Society, the club has 90 members. It obtained an official charter this fall. Joe Harrell, president, represented the club at the national convention in Washington, D.C.

Inter-Dorm Council

The representative body of the dormitory system of UT Arlington is the Inter-dormitory Council. The council, which is the voice of the residents, represents Pachl Hall, Trinity House, Brazos House, Lipscomb Hall, and Lee House. Any student dormitory housing at least 50 UT Arlington students may be represented. The council sponsors several social functions, including dances.

International Club

Students from many foreign countries and the United States find an opportunity to meet and exchange ideas as members of the International Students Club. The club has introduced culture from many lands to the campus along with internationally-known speakers. The 40 active members hear these speakers twice a month. Early in the fall, the group heard Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge speak in Dallas, and a banquet spotlighting international foods and customs was held this year. The Soccer Club was founded by ISC, but is rapidly becoming an independent organization.

George Haddan, International Students Club member, visits with guests Joe Bohannon and son at a reception for foreign students newly-arrived on campus.

Political Science Club

Plans to sponsor a model Organization of American States with area junior college students invited to attend were part of the activities of the Political Science Club. The club also assists in planning for Government Emphasis week and invites speakers involved in politics, government and political science. Dr. Wayne Odom, Dr. Sam Hamlett, adn Allen Saxe are sponsors.

Press Club

Any interested student may join the Press Club, sponsored by Paul Blakney and Ernest Leister. Yearbook, newspaper, and literary magazine staff members, actively organizing for the first year, entered a float in the Homecoming parade. Activities also included the sale of plastic book covers during distribution of the REVEILLE. Meetings are held bi-monthly.

Rebel Flying Club

Students interested in aviation who join the Rebel Flying Club are aided in finding the least expensive and most productive way to learn flying or, for members who are already pilots, to get additional ratings. The 25 members toured airport control centers, the Air Traffic Control Center, and flew in to lakes or recreation areas for picnics.

Members of the Rebel Flying Club toured the control tower at Greater Southwest International Airport.

Rebel Flying Club members qualify for private or commercial licenses by training in this Cessna 150, loaned by the Longhorn Aero Club at UT Austin.

Rebel Ham Club

One of the purposes of the Rebel Ham Club is to further the interest in electronics and, particularly, radio communications on the campus. Eighteen members instigated the Inter-Collegiate Communications Networks and brought a teletype network to campus. Other activities included national and international "on the air" contacts with other amateur radio stations and experimental work with electronic devices.

WSO

Eighteen members of the Women's Service Organization joined with campus sororities and fraternities to present a variety show for the Terrill Mental Institute and helped with student elections, registration, the Cancer Drive, and the distribution of yearbooks. Members of the club, which serves both UT Arlington and the community, must take 12 hours and give at least 20 hours of service to the group.

Republicans

The UT Arlington Young Republicans became an official club last year for the purpose of developing students in an effective political organization and instructing them in the principles of the Republican Party. Members must be between the ages of 15 and 36 and subscribe to the principles of the Republican Party. Maurice Carlson is the sponsor.

HONORARIES

Alpha Chi

Alpha Chi, a National Honor Scholarship Society new to the UT Arlington campus, serves to promote and recognize scholarship and those elements of character which make scholarship effective. Alpha Chi presents a national scholarship, participates in the writing and presentation of papers at regional and national conventions, and publishes the Recorder. Their motto is "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Members must have a minimum of 60 hours, 30 of which must be taken at UT Arlington, with a 2.5 over-all average.

Epsilon Nu Gamma

Epsilon Nu Gamma, whose purpose is to recognize outstanding engineering students and alumni, is the Engineering Honor Society at UT Arlington. The Society was founded as a chapter of Tau Beta Pi, the national engineering honor society, and petitioned for membership in Tau Beta Pi this year. Members are selected during their second semester as juniors from the top eighth of their junior engineering class or during their senior year from the top fifth of the senior engineering class. Officers are Walter Grantham, president; Hugh Southall, vice-president; Mike Martin, secretary-treasurer; and Norman Corbitt, cataloger. Dr. W. H. Nedderman is sponsor.

Pledge Jimmy Pritchett and pledge Alan Farro examine a Coke bottle made in Erie, Pa., while President Walter Grantham measurers an 11" x 32" wrench for correct size, which pledge Bill Witt had to find in the pledge scavanger hunt.

Eta Kappa Nu

The Epsilon Mu chapter of Eta Kappa Nu, an electrical engineering scholastic honor society, requires that its members be in the top third of their senior electric engineering class or the top quarter of their junior class. The club, which sponsors a clinic, has 20 undergraduate members, 24 pledges, and six graduates. Dr. C. W. Jiles is sponsor. Officers are LeRoy Thompson, president; Lynn Heitman, vice-president; Ron McAfee, secretary; Paul Darden, treasurer; Dwight Hill; James Rinewalt; and Larry Lewis.

Tom Milson, Thomas Crandall, and Jimmy Dosier display their outstanding pledge hats. Texas Electric this year contributed the hats for Eta Kappa Nu pledges to decorate and wear for a week prior to their initiation.

Sigma Gamma Epsilon

The honorary earth science fraternity, Sigma Gamma Epsilon, sponsored field trips and lectures for area schools who requested them. They also offered the W. A. Tarr award, granted the Roy Stiff scholarship, and entered a float in the Homecoming parade. The group, only three years old, collects, numbers, and packages rock and mineral specimens for freshman labs. With 14 hours in geology, a 2.0 average in his major, and a 1.67 overall average, the student is eligible for membership. Sigma Gamma Epsilon members elected Reg Lyle as their president, and Russell E. Clemens sponsored the group.

Sigma Tau Delta

Junior and senior English majors who have been recognized for their scholarship and leadership are offered membership into Sigma Tau Delta, the national English fraternity. Students must maintain a 2.0 in English and an overall average of 2.0 on a minimum of 60 hours of undergraduate work to be eligible. However, Mu Theta chapter local membership is open to all English majors and minors regardless of classification.

Outstanding activities include the formation of Creativity, an all-student coordinated group which meets to write and to interpret or appreciate work of individual students. Creativity is open to all students.

Programs are presented at each monthly meeting by guest professors, and two installation banquets are held each year after a candlelight initiation. This year the organization entered a car in the Homecoming parade.

Lab Band

Directed by Dan Burkholder, the Lab Band played radio shows, concerts at Scott Theatre in Fort Worth, and the auditorium at UT Arlington. They also preformed on television in November.

The group consists of professional musicians, 15 of whom are members of the American Federation of Musicians, who work in various bands outside of school.

I ntheir respective groups, members have played engagements at Six Flags over Texas and Six Flags over Georgia. Others have performed in Las Vegas and others with name bands throughout the United States.

Confusion and noise erupt into music as Lab Band practice gets under way.

Small groups of around 25 students each chosen from the marching band alternate to perform at the pep rallies and other school events at which the entire marching band cannot participate.

Bands Entertain In Field, Concert

Both the marching and concert bands are under the direction of Jack Mahan, head of the Music Department. Assistant director is William F. Postlethwaite.

The marching band, along with its 122 instrumentalists, consists of drum majors Johnny Carr, Jr., Robert Newton, and Milton Strong, and six majorettes.

The concert band, whose members are auditioned from the marching band, is an active group. During the year they participated in a concert December 11, and, during the spring semester, an Awards Concert at which two scholarships were given to seniors from Arlington and Sam Houston high schools. A tour in early April was another highlight of their year's events.

Select Choruses Join in Concerts

Directed by Gary Ebensberger, the A Cappella Choir presented its annual Christmas Concert, Spring Concert and various other activities throughout the year. Both on-campus concerts were held in the Theatre building with the Christmas concert featuring "Mass in G" by Franz Schubert as well as several numbers sung by the Holiday Singers, a group selected from the larger A Cappella Choir.

Of special interest was a three-day tour taken during the spring in which UT Arlington's A Cappella Choir sang in the Hemisfair at San Antonio.

A Cappella Choir accompanist is Elizabeth Hawkes and student director is Leon Voyles.

Holiday Singers, selected members of the A Cappella Choir, are directed by Gary Ebensberger and are accompanied on the piano by Rush Robinson.

A spring show by the Holiday Singers and the Lab Band presented popular music. The show was entitled "Up and Away UTA".

Shows by the Holiday Singers also included performances at conventions, banquets, and country clubs, especially during the Christmas season. Payment for such programs comes in the form of scholarship donations to be used by the music department for vocal and choir scholarships.

Little Theatre group asks for show of tickets in a clever advertising campaign for the fall play.

Little Theatre

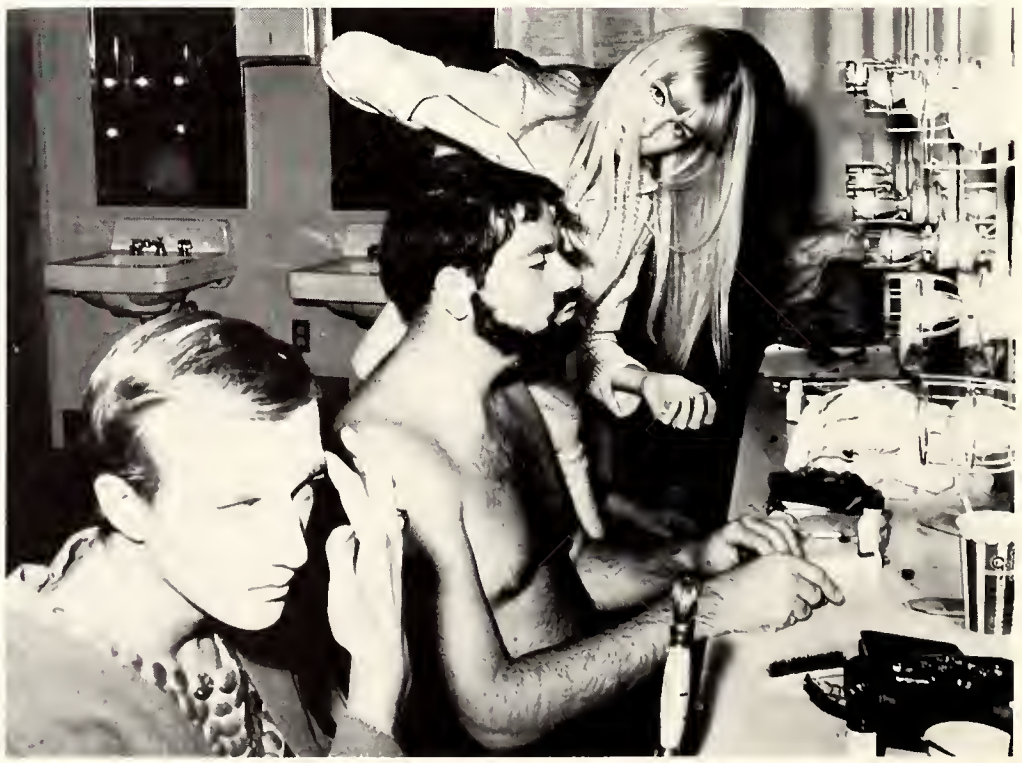
Little Theatre consists of two classes taught by Richard L. Slaughter and Thomas L. Fisher, who also direct plays presented by Little Theatre members.

As an accredited course, Little Theatre meets for class periods and as many hours after class as is necessary for planning and rehearsing parts.

The fall play, "The Lark", by Jean Anouilh, was the first of several produced by this group. Presented was Joan of Arc's trial in which the testimony was flashbacks recounting the events of her life.

Play production staff, also Little Theatre members, worked on costumes, scenery, and lighting. Student director was Linda Ware, and stage manager was Tommy Beene.

Leading parts were played by Cyndy Streetman as Joan, Charles Brim as Warrick, and Tim Schropshire as Charles.



The lighting is set; the stage is ready. Make up and get to work — "The Lark" is almost ready to begin.

Gini Ellett, as Charles' mother-in-law, and Cheryl Ford, as Charles' mistress, practice a new dance in "The Lark."

Richard Slaughter and Tom Fisher work with the Little Theatre classes to present plays.

King Charles of France must rest off stage just as everyone else. The part was played by Tim Shropshire.

PERSONALITIES

Winning follows the waiting while votes are tallied and judges decide.
Campaign signs are down;
ballots all are marked;
judges have examined all the entries.
Winning is the moment
when they tell me I'm the one!
Grinning friends and their congratulations overwhelm me.
I guess that I'm a "personality" now,
a funny word to mean that because I represent the others, people that I've never seen before know my name.
And I must make them proud of me.

Campaigns, Contests Determine Winners

Colorful campaign signs lining the sidewalks flashed names, photographs, ballot numbers, and club colors to lure voters for the fall elections.

Student elections and a beauty contest drew more than 270 candidates this year, but, as always, only a few could emerge as winners. In the middle of October, candidates for Miss Dixie Bell, favorites, freshmen cheerleaders, and frosh officers began their campaigning, while colorful campaign signs sprang up on every available space of grass around the campus. Student elections were held after a week of vigorous campaigning by all the candidates. Voters cast their ballots in the student center on two days.

This was the first year that freshmen cheerleaders have been elected. Fifty-five girls ran for four positions as yell-leaders and seventeen boys for the four male places. The winning group of eight adopted blue and white uniforms and began leading yells at junior varsity football and basketball games.

At the same time, 133 girls were judged in the preliminaries of the Reveille Beauty Contest. Of the girls judged in the preliminaries, 30 were selected as semi-finalists. From this group, eight were chosen as Reveille Beauties in the final round of judging. The girls were rated on face, figure, posture, hair, apparel, and grooming.

Semifinalists Karen Pollard and Lory Bowles add last-minute touches before the REVEILLE Beauty Finals.

To climax a week of feverish campaigning in October, almost 13% of the students enrolled cast their votes to elect a number of campus representatives.

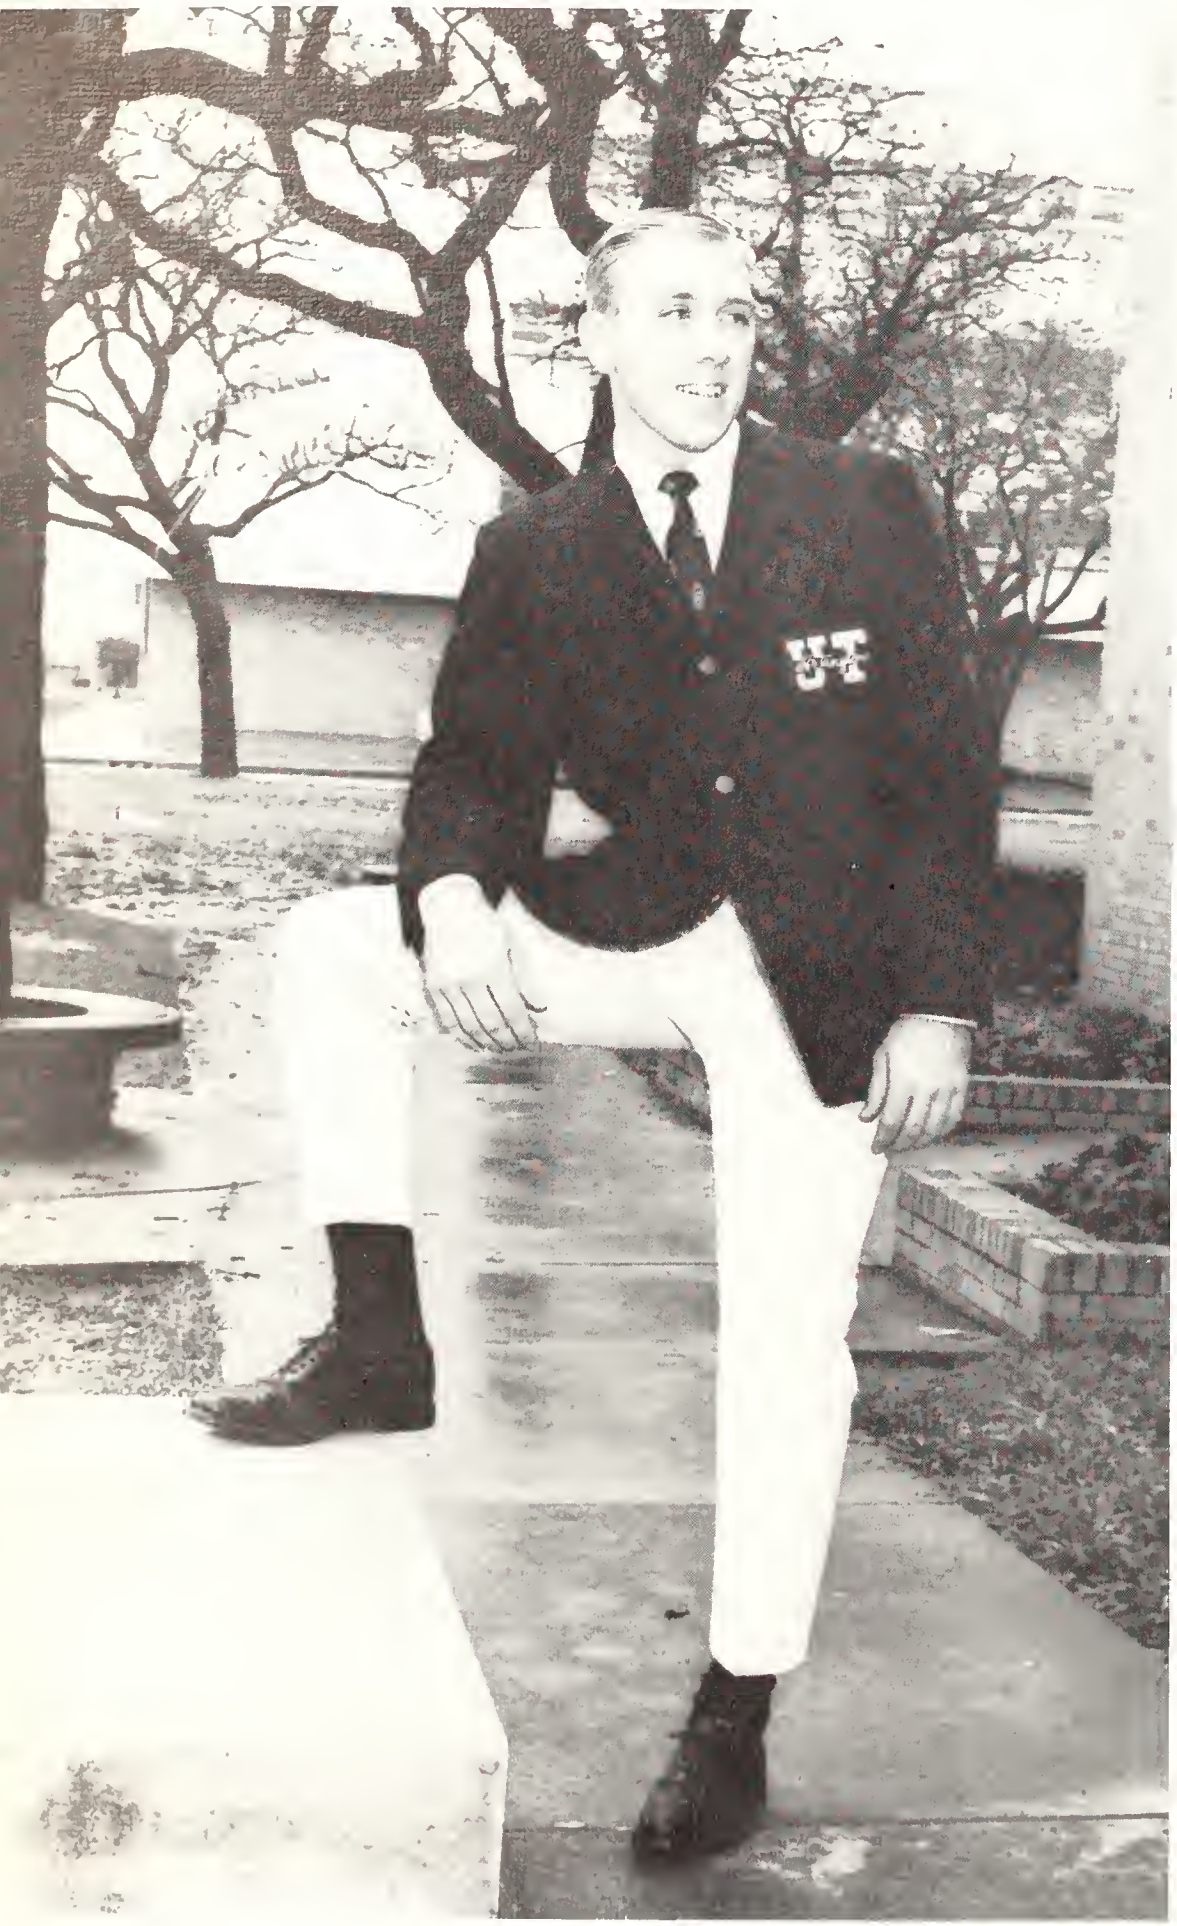
Ballots Determine Miss Dixie Belle

The ballots were cast and counted several weeks before Jorja Jackson was presented as Miss Dixie Belle during half-time ceremonies of the 1967 Homecoming game. Being one of the official hostesses for UT Arlington heads the list of many honors for Jorja, a junior English major from Grand Prairie. Jorja is Avolonte vice-president and pledge trainer, a member of Holiday Singers and A Capella choir, and was a finalist in the Reveille Beauty contest. Miss Dixie Belle acts as a hostess with Miss UTA and Johnny Reb.

Johnny Reb Symbolizes Rebel Spirit



Robert Hale, a senior from Lubbock, donned a Confederate uniform this year to become Johnny Reb, UT Arlington's symbol of school spirit. Robert, a history major, is a member of Alpha Sigma Chi and serves as their intramural director. He was a school favorite last year, San Souci beau, vice-president of Lee House, a member of the varsity basketball team, and freshman basketball coach.

As Johnny Reb, Robert rides a white horse around the field at football games, gives talks at pep rallies, and represents the school off campus on a university level, Johnny Reb speaks at area high schools and welcomes new students at freshman orientation. Robert, in his job as Johnny Reb, represents the student body by serving as a member at large of Student Activities Board and Student Government.

Robert was chosen by the student body during spring elections. He serves as an official school host.

Miss UTA Voted Campus Hostess

This year's Miss UT Arlington is Cindi Coulson of Arlington. Cindi, a junior, lives in Lee House and is a member of Les Choisies sorority. She is Kappa Sigma sweetheart and a former cheerleader. She was UT Arlington's candidate for Pecan Bowl Queen.

As Miss UT Arlington, Cindi is the official school hostess. She welcomes visiting dignitaries to campus functions and represents the school at off-campus activities. She speaks to new students at Freshman Orientation and visits area high schools to inform senior students of campus life at UT Arlington, encouraging them to attend school here. Miss UT Arlington is selected by the student body in spring elections, sharing hostess honors with Miss Dixie Belle and Johnny Reb.

Emcee Gerald Baker pins the winner's corsage on Barbara Stuart, a 21-year-old English major from Dallas, as she is named Best-Dressed Coed in the 1968 contest. Finalists for the honor were Myriam Hubbard, Sandra Griffin, Linda Atkins, and Vicki Barker.

Best-Dressed Coed Wins With Fashion

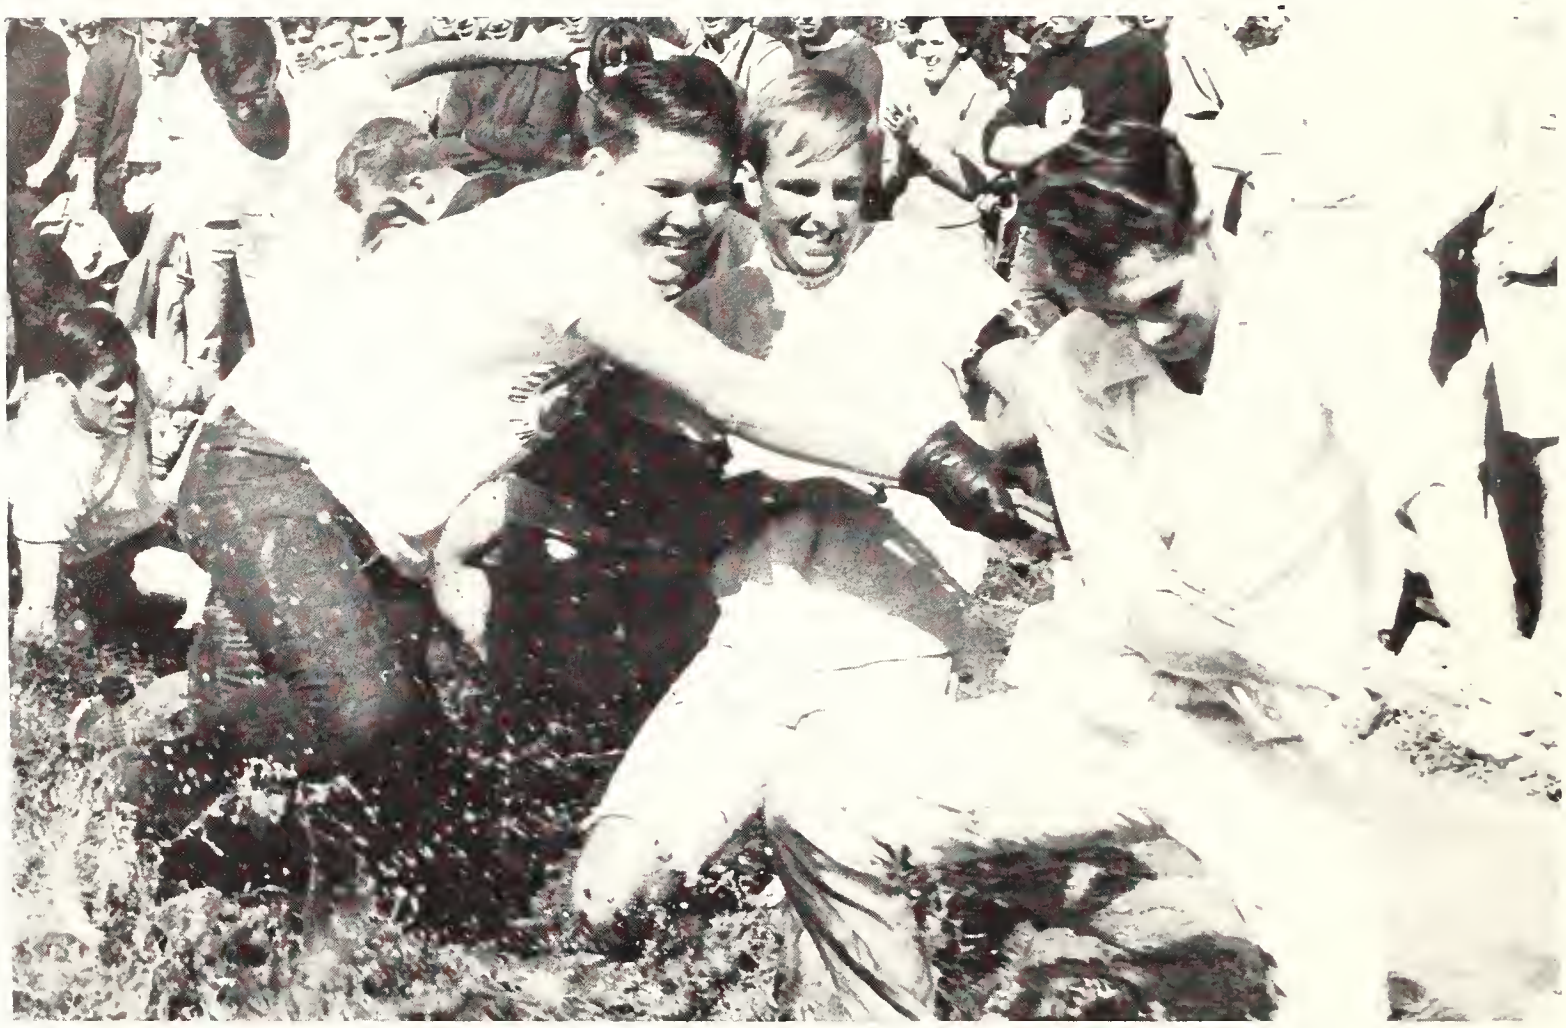
Selections from the wardrobes of 39 girls were modeled February 19 for the Reveille's Best-Dressed Coed Contest. Contestants, who appeared in sports outfits, date dresses, and after-five attire, were rated on each ensemble and given bonus points for grooming and general appearance. Judges for the event were Mrs. Louise Woerner, director of public relations from Titches; Ken Whitt, director of public information at UT Arlington; and Mrs. Mary Taylor, an instructor from John Robert Powers.

Combining a navy, orange, and yellow color scheme, Barbara wears plaid jumper pants and knee socks for sports events.

White patent shoes and purse accent Barbara's pink and white window-pane plaid suit and ruffled blouse.

For after-five festivities, Barbara dresses in black and white crepe with a wide green satin belt and carries a green cocktail bag.

ATHLETICS



The final seconds fade
and the outcome is known.
I'm weary if we win
and weary if we lose,
for whether I play
or whether I watch,.
I empty myself to the game.
After hopeful brave beginnings and the clash of new encounters, relentlessly the clock pulls us on,
drawing all the tension taut within me.
And how sublime are the struggles and the shouts of the sport!
Yet but a brief moment more,
with a final brave exertion,
and the game is done . . .
and we have won.

Diablos Downed As Luft Excels

An error-filled game at Memorial Stadium on September 16 revealed that the brand-new UT Arlington football squad meant business as they bested Los Angeles State by three points in their season opener.

With 8:55 remaining in the first half, punter and place-kicker Skipper Butler booted a 35-yard field goal to put the Rebels ahead in the game against the Diablos.

A plunge by leading rusher Keith Luft and a quarterback sneak by Mike Baylor put the game out of reach for the Rebs. The defensive unit did outstanding work as they held LA to only one more score, making the final tally read Rebs 17, LA 14.

Leaders on offense were Luft and Baylor who racked up a total of 246 yards for the Rebels. Defensive standouts were linemen Jerry McLaughlin and Bob Diem, and interception whiz Robert Willbanks.

Rebs Bag Game Over Ags, 15-14

The theory that a good big man can whip a good small man anytime went out the window on September 23, as the UT Arlington Rebels edged powerful New Mexico State University, 15-14.

Scoring began on a 70-yard touchdown run by Aggie Doug Dalton. However, the Rebs marched 80 yards back down the field on their second series of downs to knot the score at 7-7.

After NMSU had gone ahead on a pass play early in the third, all seemed lost. But a fumble recovered at the Reb 23 sparked UT Arlington to another TD, led by sophomore Ronnie Faulkner. Then, with starting QB Mike Baylor at the controls again, the Rebels converted for the winning two points on a catch by wingback Mike Buchanan. The game ended with the Rebs on top, 15-14.

Rebs Overcome East Texas, 7-6

On September 30, UT Arlington went into a football game with a number seven rating among the nation's small colleges. But worries about losing this prestige were erased that night, as the Rebels downed East Texas State 7-6.

The game went scoreless for nearly three quarters, when, with 4:41 remaining, ETSU kicked a 26-yard field goal, making the score 3-0. Then, to make matters worse, the Lions booted another early in the fourth to give them a six-point advantage.

Directly after this score, sophomore quarterback Ronnie Faulkner marched the Rebels to a touchdown made on a pass play to Mike Buchanan with a scant 1:42 left. Skipper Butler then kicked the vital extra point and the Rebs won, 7-6.

Outstanding on offense was Faulkner, who racked up 53 passing yards in eight attempts, and Keith Luft, with a rushing total of 63 yards. Defensive leaders were linebacker Monty Tolleson and rover Mike Stamps.

MSC Victim of Victorious Rebs

The Rebels journeyed to Lake Charles, Louisiana, on Saturday, October 7, and staved off a Cowboy attack for three quarters to thwart McNeese State College, 17-16.

Scoring began on a Cowboy run for six points, climaxing an 81-yard drive by McNeese, who later kicked a field goal to go ahead 10-0 at the half.

The Rebs came back in the third to make the score read 10-7 on a run by Luft, but the stubborn Cowboys retaliated by running their tally up to 16. Finally, UT Arlington succeeded in narrowing their lead to 16-14, and then capped the affair on a field goal by Skipper Butler.

Quarterback Mike Baylor was named offensive player of the week by the Quarterback Club, which also singled out tackle Jimmy Stoehr as the best defensive man.

Tarleton Thrown, 37-7, by Rebels

UT Arlington finally became tired of those nip-and-tuck ball games on Saturday, October 14, when they trounced Tarleton State College 37-7 before 8,500 at home.

The Rebels began scoring on their first series of downs, sneaking tailback Tim Christy over right tackle, scored again on a rollout from quarterback Mike Baylor from the five shortly after, and then made the score 28-0 at the half on a 56-yard pass play to end Jimmy Thomas and another on a run by Baylor.

Shortly after the second half opened, Rebel Mickey Eddleman ran back a punt untouched for the fifth TD of the evening, and TSC got on the ball, finally scoring on a fourth and goal situation on a toss from Texan J. D. McMahon to Harlan Wunsch.

With the score 34-7, Skipper Butler booted a 31-yard field goal to end the scoring late in the game and UT Arlington emerged, 37-7.

Outstanding on offense were Baylor and Thomas, while the defensive standouts for the evening were Jimmy Stoehr and Billy Mitchell.

Trinity Dropped, 31-16, by Rebels

The Rebels journeyed to San Antonio on Saturday, October 21, and whipped the Trinity University Tigers, 31-16, to remain undefeated.

The Rebs won an early 8-0 lead on a pass to wingback Mike Buchanan, who also ran for the extra points.

End Jimmy Thomas gathered in another pass a little later to score again, but the Tigers retaliated in the third quarter by storming to the Arlington goal to put them out front 16-15.

Two minutes later, however, Reb linebacker Jim Sheridan intercepted a Tiger pass and returned it for a TD, putting Arlington ahead to stay. The two tallies that finished the game came on a 34-yard field goal by Skipper Butler and a touchdown pass from Baylor to Thomas.

Of special interest in this game was Baylor, who was voted Southland Conference Player of the Week, for his 209 aerial yards.

Rebel coach Charlie Qualls works his boys out in blocking maneuvers. The UT Arlington Rebels worked out daily during the 1967 season, stressing stamina, agility, and strength. WTS Gets Nod As Rebels Lose

The nationally-ranked UT Arlington Rebels were handed their first setback of the 1967 season on October 28 when they were stopped cold by West Texas State, 37-27.

The Rebs, plaqued with troubles all night, lost two points nearly at the outset of the game when WTS gained a safety. Shortly thereafter, West Texas scored again, upping their lead to 9-0.

Finally, as the quarter drew to a close, the Rebels scored on a run by Danny Griffin. But, as fate would have it, the PAT try was blocked and Arlington still trailed.

By the start of the fourth quarter, WTS had amassed its 37 points, while the Rebs had only 13. With 4:43 left in the game, Griffin ran for six, but a two-point conversion try was unsuccessful. Then, with only one second left, Mike Baylor scored from the one and ran for two to end the tilt at 37-27.

These four, Bob Diem, Robert Willbanks, Burley Bearden (coach), Jimmy Thomas, and Mike Baylor all finished the 1967 season by attaining either all-American or honorable mention status.

End Jimmy Thomas grimaces after being grabbed by ACC pass defender.

Wildcats Downed 34-7 by Arlington

The Abilene Christian Wildcats were out of luck on Saturday, November 4, as the UT Arlington Rebels swept to an easy 34-7 victory before 10,500 at Memorial Stadium, site of the Arlington Homecoming clash.

The 'Cats won an early 7-0 lead on a run by ACC QB David Fuller. However, the Rebs came right back, tied it up on a fantastic 80-yard toss from Baylor to Jimmy Thomas, went ahead on a 75-yarder to Dick Hill, and then made the score a round 20-7 on another pass to Thomas.

Directly after, quarterback Baylor ran one across from the three-yard-line to add insult to injury, and then, with Ronnie Faulkner in for Baylor, Mike Buchanan scored with 0:05 left in the game to put the Rebs out of reach.

Honored by the Southland Conference that week as outstanding players were Mike Baylor again, on offense, and David Miller, defensive end for the Rebs.

Arlington Wins Over ASU, 16-14

The wet, muddy Rebels found that an inch was as good as a mile as they edged Arkansas State University 16-14 in Jonesboro, Arkansas on November 11 amid rain and muck.

Scoring came first on a four-yard run by quarterback Mike Baylor with the point after by Skip Butler. Butler figured heavily in the game by placing three field goals between the uprights for a league record.

In retaliation, the Indians scored on first and goal, and, with the score thus knotted 7-7, Butler came in to up the Confederate lead to 10-7 at the half.

Two more field goals, both by Butler, gave the Rebs all the lead they were going to get as Arkansas nibbled at the lead after a run by Indian Frank McGuigan, leaving the score 16-14. A last-minute field goal attempt by the Indians went wide, and hence the Rebs had their eighth win of the year.

Rebs Deal Cards 16-10 Conference Loss

The Rebs run wild after clinching the Southland Conference championship.

UT Arlington claimed its first undisputed Southland Conference championship on November 18 when they boxed up the Lamar Tech Cardinals, 16-10.

Fullback Danny Griffin and punter Skip Butler put on a scoring show that enabled the Rebs to win, as Griffin bounded for 215 yards rushing. Butler accounted for extra points and three field goals.

The initial score, late in the first quarter, came on a 10-yard touchdown pass from QB Baylor to wingback Mike Buchanan, and Butler then tacked on his three field goals. The Cardinals succeeded in tying the Rebs at one point in the game, 10-10, but that was as far as they ever got.

Jim Marcum intercepted a crucial Cardinal toss with 2:09 remaining and offensive guard Greg Bailey recovered a fumbled punt with 1:31 remaining to help the Rebels win the "big one."

Billy Mitchell (30), Robert Willbanks (45), and Fred Gough (87) break up a pass.

Reb Team Scores Pecan Bowl Win

In 27-degree weather, the University of Texas at Arlington played their first post-season bowl game as a senior college on Decembr 16 and trounced the North Dakota State Bisons, 13-0.

Dubbed the Pecan Bowl and played in Abilene, this televised game was played in the midst of ice and snow and pitted the Rebels against the no. 2 small college in the nation.

Scoring began on a run by Danny Griffin with 1:23 left in the first half, following a botched PAT attempt. The ensuing minutes, until a six-yard TD by tailback Keith Luft late in the fourth, were electrified by the rough defensive maneuvering of the Rebs, who held the Bisons' no. 1 offense to only 106 total rushing.

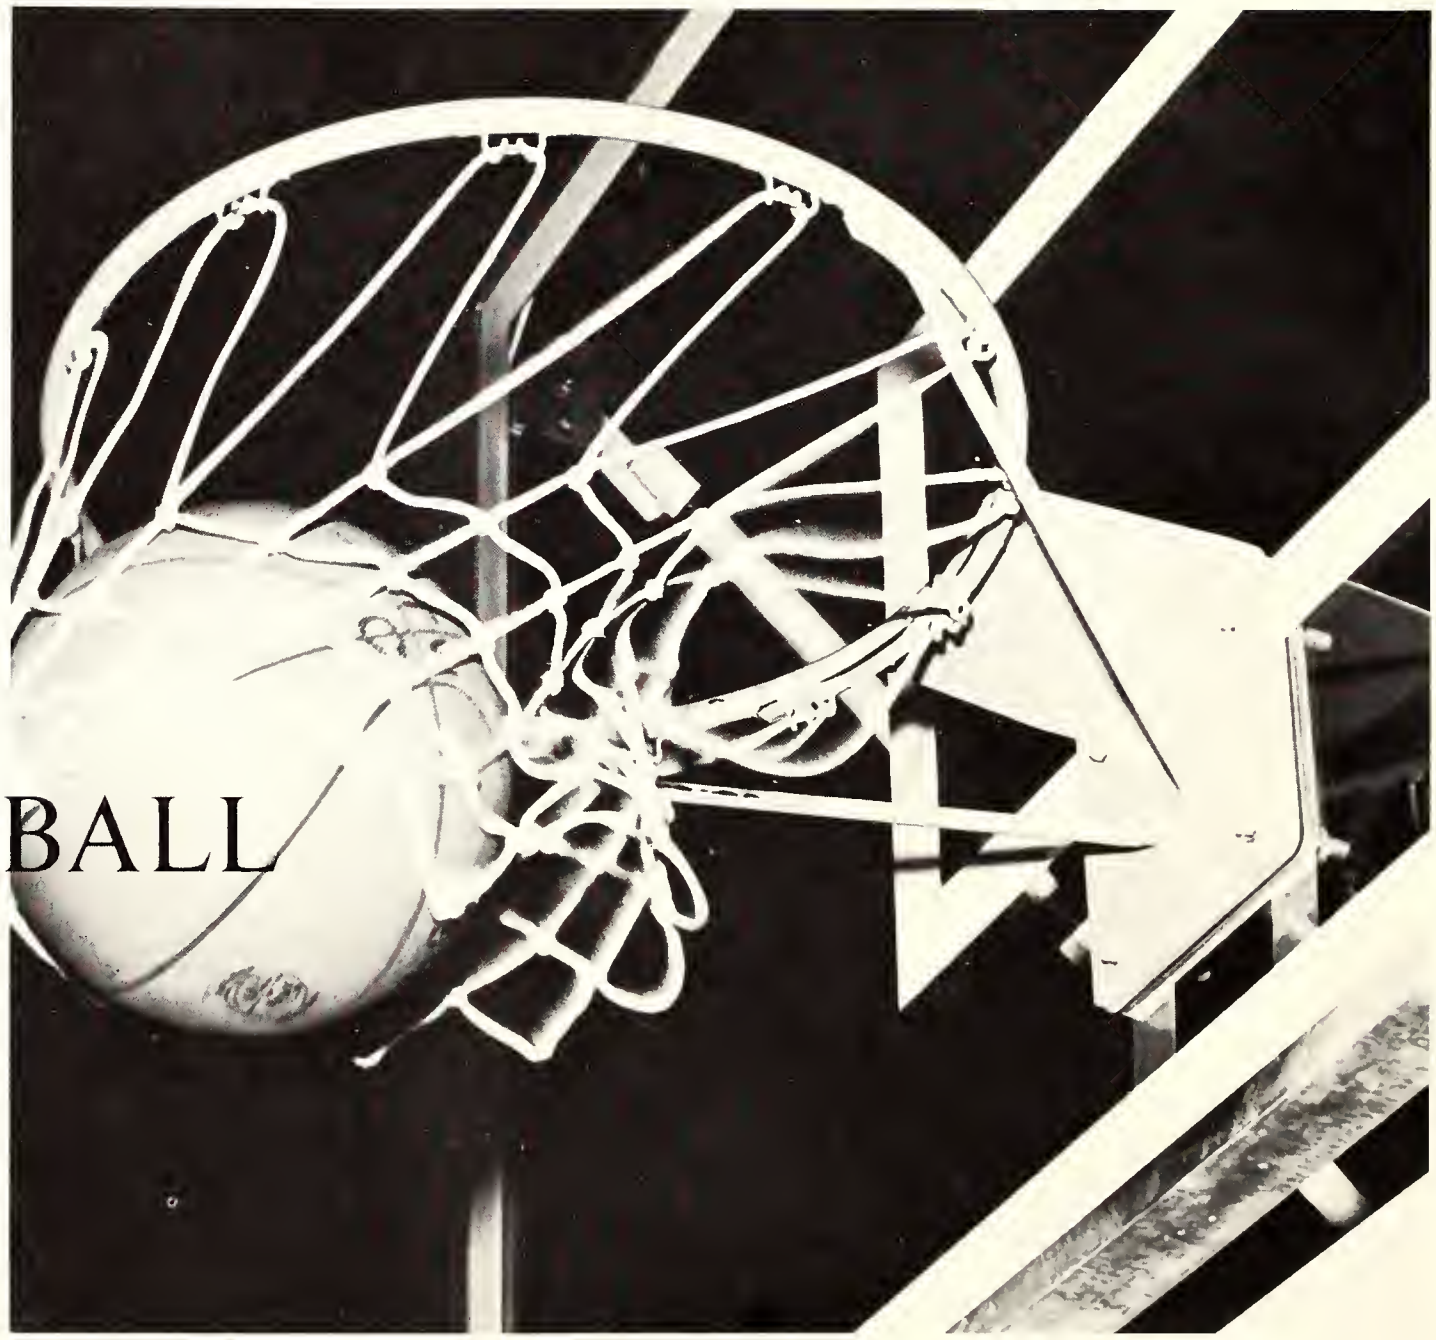
BASKETBALL



Season Offered Keen Opposition for Rebs

John Shelton, rated as UT Arlington's best defensive man, races for a basket after stealing the ball from Texas Tech in inter-sectional play.

Although the 1967-68 basketball season did not prove to be a fruitful one for the UT Arlington Rebels, they were at least able to try their luck against more formidable foes than in previous years.

Expanding their perspective all the way into the Southwest Conference, the Rebs played such "big-name" teams as Texas Tech, Baylor, and even the first ranked-nationally University of Houston.

Indications are that UT Arlington will continue in this "big-name foe" policy in years to come; this is the aim of the athletic department.

As the University of Texas at Arlington grows, then, so must its stature, scholastically and athletically, in basketball and other varsity sports.

Trying to outjump his opponent, John Shelton battles with a Tech player for possession of the ball.

Texas Wesleyan Divides Matches

The University of Texas at Arlington basketball squad split a pair of cage battles with the Texas Wesleyan College Rams on December 13 and January 30, 110-101, and 113-109, respectively.

On December 13 the hard-hitting Rams crushed the Rebels despite heroic efforts on the parts of Terry George (22 points), Mike Collinsworth (16 points), and Joe Gary Smith (14 points.)

In a game at home on January 30, the Rebs outlasted TWC in overtime to take the game. Sophomore Eddie Stallings saved the day often in the thriller, most notably with six seconds left when he made a basket, tying the score and sending both teams into overtime.

Stallings led the Rebs with 37 points while Travis Johnson of Texas Wesleyan led his team with 27 points.

Rebs Lose Two To ETSU Lions

The Lions of East Texas State University bested the UT Arlington Rebels in two encounters during the 1967-68 season, the first being on December 14 in Arlington and the second on January 3 in Commerce.

In the game on home ground, the Rebs were bolstered by leading scorers Mike Collinsworth (14 points), John Shelton (16 points), and Eddie Stallings (13 points). The Rebels lost the game, 74-68.

At Commerce the Rebs led 32-29 at the half, but eventually fell victim to the Lions by the narrow margin of 63-61. Stallings again led his team in scoring, with 24 points. John Shelton ran second with 14 points.

Rebs Drop Pair To Midwestern

The University of Texas at Arlington lost a close one to Midwestern University in an exciting game that reached a 95-90 climax. The Rebs, who led 42-41 at the half, were forced to accept the final score despite outstanding performances on the part of several of the players.

Junior Gene Wilson was high point man with 20 points while Eddie Stallings was second with a total 15 points.

In a rematch with the Indians on December 20, the Rebels were again tripped, this time by a score of 90-84.

Larry Oakes had his finest game of the season against Midwestern, scoring 18 points. Joe Gary Smith and John Shelton netted 15 points each.

Arlington Whipped Twice By Rams

In matches against Angelo State, on December 16 and 21, UT Arlington was beaten twice, by scores of 86-82 and 116-108 respectively.

In the first encounter with the Rams, the Rebels led in field goals by a margin of 34-32. They were led in scoring by sophomore Eddie Stallings, with 22 points; junior John Shelton, with 18 points; and by senior Terry George, with 14 points.

On December 21, Shelton was again among the high scorers, bouncing in 28 points' worth of baskets. He was followed closely by teammate Stallings, who gathered 20 points.

The Rebs led by as many as 15 points once in the first half, but succumbed to the powerful Rams, 116-108

Rebs Lose Pair To ASU Indians

The Southland Conference race got underway for the UT Arlington Rebs when they squared off against Arkansas State on January 6 and then met them again on February 10. The scores of the games were 83-77, and 73-65, respectively.

Eddie Stallings had a very good night against ASU in the first outing, scoring a total of 29 points.

In the second encounter, UT Arlington was overtaken by the determined Indians. The Rebs had led for most of the game.

Stallings again paced his team in this tilt, bucketing 24 points. He was followed by forward-guard John Shelton, who contributed 15 points to the cause.

Trinity Compelled To Split Matches

The UT Arlington Rebels took on the Trinity Tigers twice during the 1967-68 season, and were able to split the pair with them, 102-95 and 94-89.

The first encounter, on January 8, pitted the Confederates against a seventh-ranked small college foe. The Tigers rallied from an 11-point deficit to overcome Arlington, 102-95.

In the next meeting, in San Antonio, the fired-up Rebs downed the fifth-ranked among small colleges, 94-89.

It was an upset and was due very largely to outstanding performances by Stallings (31 points), Shelton (15 points), and Wilson (15 points).

Abilene Blisters Rebels, 86-76

UT Arlington traveled to Abilene on February 23 to try to improve its 0-2 SLC mark, but the ACC Wildcats proved their worth by blistering the Rebs 86-76.

Although the Rebels trailed by 11 points at the half, they came back and outscored ACC in the second go-round. However they could not overcome the Wildcats' lead.

The story was essentially the same on February 20, when the Conference leading Wildcats again dumped UT Arlington, this time 101-80.

By the half, they had built up a 15-point advantage, and the frustrated Rebs could only diminish it by five points at any time in the game.

Leading scorers in these games were Gene Wilson, John Shelton, and Eddie Stallings.

Rebels Dumped By Lamar Tech

On February 6 the UT Arlington Rebels failed again to post a victory in the Southland Conference race, and fell victim to Lamar Tech, 120-111.

After trailing the Cardinals by as many as 17 points during the first half, the Confederates were able to muster 13 straight points late in the game, cutting the Lamar lead to only 11 points.

However, the spurt was staved off and the Cardinals won. Stallings and Wilson were high point men with 28 and 27 points respectively.

WTS Clouted In Season Finale

In the Rebel basketball season finale at Texas Hall on March 1, UT Arlington clobbered West Texas State, 100-92.

Although their season tally was a dismal 6-20, the Rebs came on strong in their last three games, clouting, among others, small college power Pan-American College.

In the outing against the Buffs, the Confederates led at halftime 56-43. They never relinquished this lead.

Gene Stallings was again leading scorer for the Rebels with 33 points, followed by John Shelton with 26 points. However, matching Shelton's feat was postman David Wollenman, who hauled in 16 rebounds for an identical number of points.

Rebs Split Pair; Rematch Upset

The University of Texas at Arlington suffered their 18th loss of the season February 17 at the hands of Pan-American College, 98-82.

The Rebs, who had tied the Broncs 50-50 at the half, fell behind and were beaten in the second stanza.

High point man was John Shelton with 19 points, followed by David Wollenman with 16 and Eddie Stallings with 15.

In a rematch with PAC on February 26, however, the hard-hitting Rebels succeeded in upsetting the then nationally third-ranked small college, 108-105.

UT Arlington led by 18 points going into the second half, and were nearly overcome near the finale, but an excellent shot by Gene Wilson put them out of reach.

Thinclads Meet Tough Opposition

The UT Arlington track team, composed of 19 men and coached by Bobby Lane, competed in 11 meets this year, spanning a time period of March to May and competing against teams from Arkansas to Mexico City.

Ken Walters and Skip Benson are the co-captains of the team.

The crew competed this year in the Fort Worth Recreational Meet, The Arlington Relays, and the Commerce Meet in March, a meet at Abilene, a meet in Jonesboro, Arkansas, and the Texas Relays held at the University of Texas in April.

Also held in April was the Arlington Invitational Tournament and a meet held at the National University of Mexico in Mexico City. In May the Rebs competed in meets at Denton and in Arlington and at the Southland Conference Meet.

SWIMMING

Rebel Swimmers Ranked Sixth in Nation

The 1967-68 UT Arlington swimming season opened on December 6 as the Reb swimmers participated in an intersquad meet. The match, which pitted the Whites, sophomores and juniors, against the Blues, freshmen and seniors, was won by the Blues, 62-49.

The meet was in preparation for the next meet involving the Reb tankers at John Brown University, which they took easily, 72-41. Following this, they journeyed to the University of Arkansas, where they downed the Razorbacks, 76-36, then on to the Hendrix College Relays, where they swept all the events.

After a layover for Christmas holidays, the Confederates came back hard on January 13, slamming Texas A&M 84-28, and downing the Phillips 66'ers and Hendricks College on January 27 and 29. The Rebels swam as the Burford Swim Club against the Phillips team.

Swimming against Kansas University on January 30, however, UT Arlington was handed its first setback of the season. Tankers Doug Russell and Charlie Smith nevertheless still turned in outstanding performances for the Rebels.

On February 2 and 3, the Reb swimmers took on OSU and Kansas State again, this time winning over OSU 57-47, taking seven events and finally downing both teams in a tri-meet at Norman, Oklahoma.

An upset occurred in Arlington when the UT Austin crew paid the Rebels a visit and were overpowered, 64-49. All-American Doug Russell set a new NCAA freestyle record in the meet, while his team took 10 of the 13 events.

Finishing the season for the Arlington swimmers were the AAU competitions in Dallas on February 15 and 16, where Russell set three records, two of them SWAAU marks and a final meet with SMU on February 27, during which the Mustangs meted out a loss to them, 70-43 in a dual meet.

MINOR SPORTS

Reb Net Squad Has Hard Luck

The UT Arlington tennis team competed in 21 matches during the 1967-68 season. The Rebels, due to an extremely tough schedule, were unable to compete effectively.

The team, composed of Bill Saunders, Richard Prince, Fred Dobbs, David Frase, Bret Mallott, and Robert Whidden, traveled far during the season, but played most of their matches in Fort Worth.

During the season, the team played Texas A&M, Oral Roberts University, SMU twice, North Texas State twice, Tulsa University, Abilene Christian twice, Hardin-Simmons twice, Texas Wesleyan twice, Arkansas State, the Air Force Academy, Southwest Texas State twice, TCU, Lamar Tech, Stephen F. Austin, and Trinity.

The team also participated in the Southland Conference Tennis Tournament held in Fort Worth May 9-11.

Golfers Compete In 3 Tourneys

The UT Arlington golf team, coached by Tom Tinker, challenged five collegiate teams in head-to-head competition, and was entered in three tournaments during its 1967-68 season.

Composed of eight members, Leonard Cochran, Jody Vasquez, Larry Anderson, Rusty Lathem, Garry Wolff, Tom Burseen, Tommy Williams and Don Copeland, the golf team competed against TCU, SMU, NTSU, TWC, and East Texas State in head to head matches.

In the first of their three tournaments during the year, on March 1 and 2 at the Fort Worth Recreational Tournament, the team placed fourth out of 10 entrants.

Other tourneys during the year included the Nacogdoches Tourney and the Southland Conference Tournament in Abilene.

The UT Arlington bowling team, composed of Danny Rives, Mike Johnston, Harold Kreck, Rodney Wilson, Mike Branson and Mark Morgan, was active during its 1967-68 season, competing in the Texas Intercollegiate Bowling Conference. They were coached by Don Beckner.

Playing each month at different schools, the team traveled to Houston to meet the University of Houston, to Bryan for A&M, to Austin for the University of Texas, to Waco for Baylor, to San Marcos for Southwest Texas State College, and to San Antonio for Trinity.

The team bowled from October to May, the team members often competing with each other to decide who would be on the team that month.

Amateurs Clash In Intramurals

For those students of UT Arlington who were not associated with regular varsity athletics during 1967-68, the intramurals program, headed by Coach Jim Garrett, provided an opportunity for them to gain experience and for them to compete.

Competing this year, and walking away with the honors, were several groups in the dormitory, club, and independent leagues.

Beginning the intramural season and taking the University Championship in the tug-of-war was Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. The Super Squirrels, a women's team, won the female counterpart of the tussle.

Intramural football followed, and taking first place in this event was Alpha Sigma Chi fraternity.

The intramural cross-country race, a big event in which over a hundred men ran, was taken by the Catholic Newman Club. The women's division of the race fell to the Super Squirrels again.

Sweeping the University Championships in both the men's and the women's intramural bowling tournament was the Newman Club again.

Weightlifting, an innovation in intramural competition, was also instituted at UT Arlington in 1968. Winning the first university championship in weightlifting, then, were the Dean's Boys.

And finishing with the lead in 'mural ping-pong was Pachl Dorm, 1st floor, men's division, and Phi Mu sorority, in the women's division.

Spring activities in intramurals included swimming, basketball, billiards, golf, and softball.

What determines the fate of a university?
I would say that it must be its leadership —
the administration
whose policies and plans define the form, and the faculty and staff whose competence must satisfy those goals.
With a growing university as this one each new day brings another need and a new way to meet that need.
And only the wisest sort of leadership can build on yesterday accommodate the challenge of today and ever turn to meet tomorrow's promise.
Leadership such as this is only granted to a fortunate few.
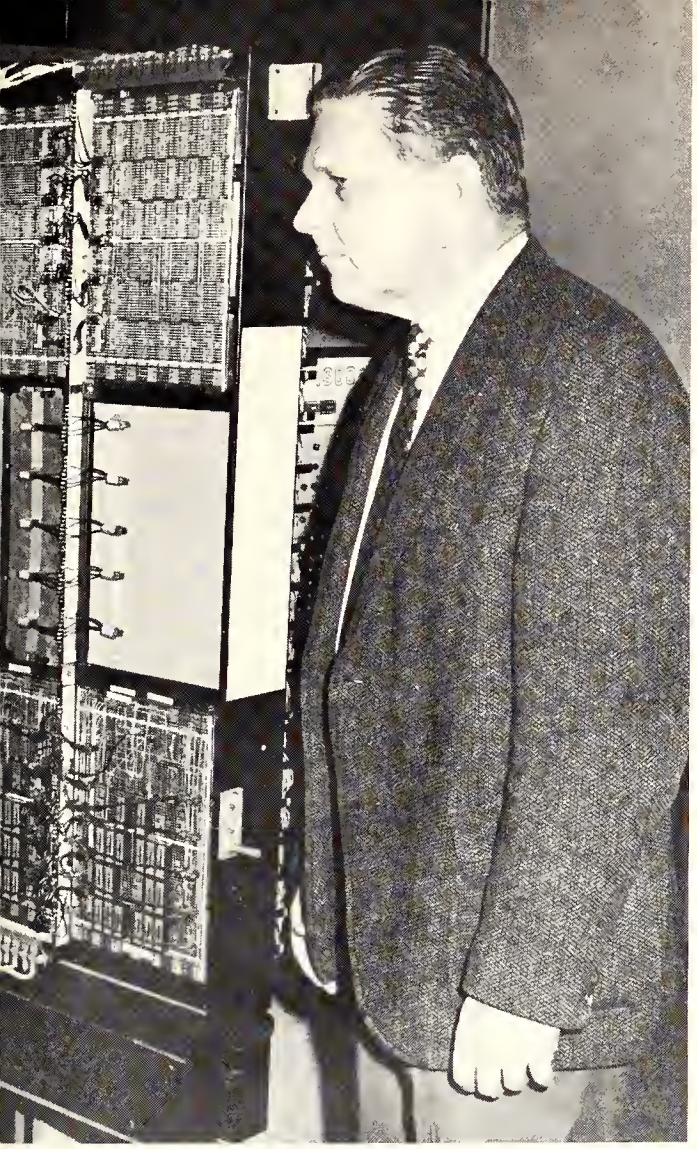
That university, then, can only grow to greatness . . . as ours, too, will grow.

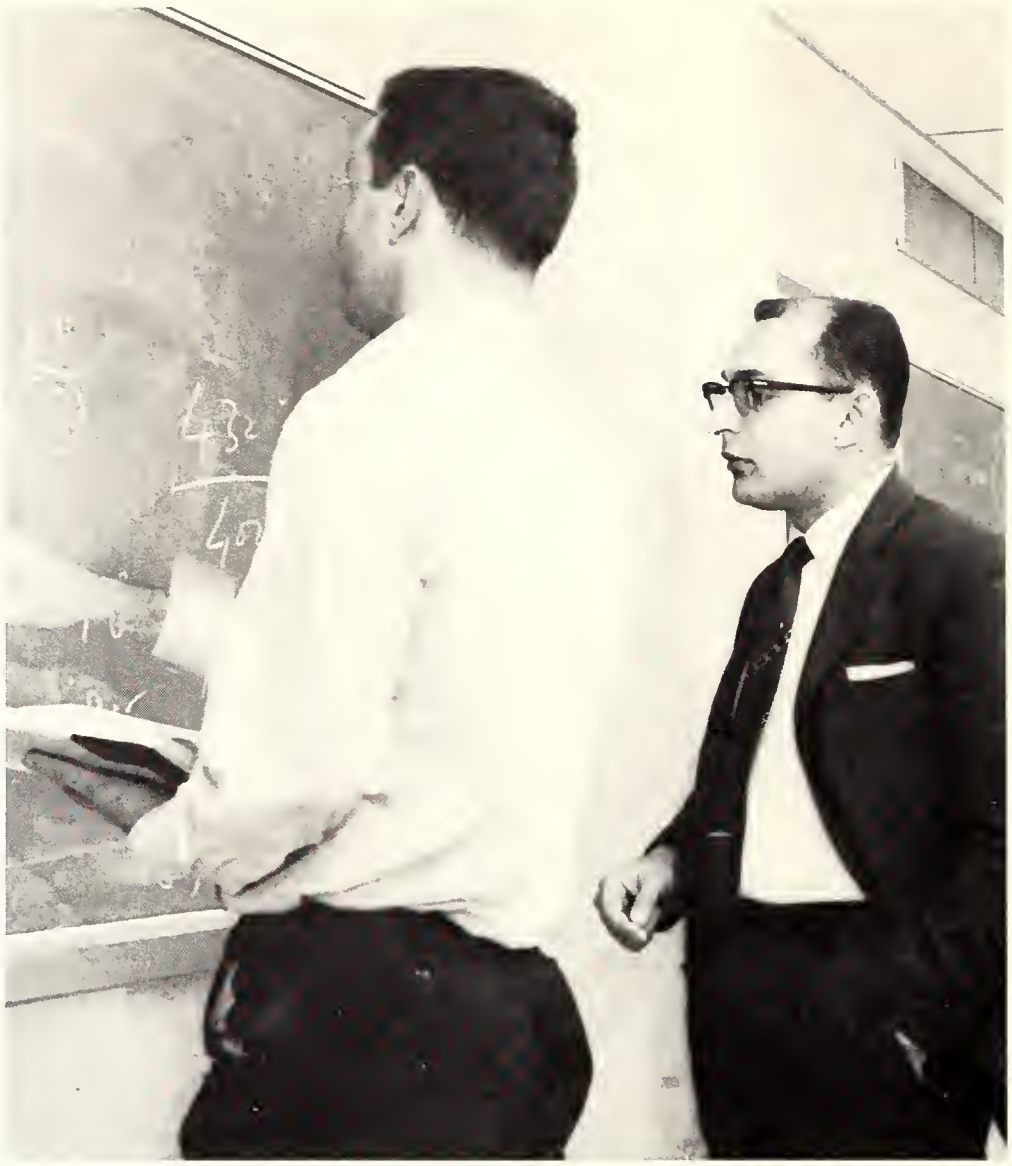


LEADERSHIP

Dedicated Faculty Honored for Work

Dedication, as defined by Webster's Dictionary: "a self-sacrificing devotion."

On every campus, there are faculty members who spend their time outside classrooms in doing extensive research, preparing papers for publication, filling speaking engagements, and working untiringly to develop effective teaching programs. These professors may be described with one word: dedication. These faculty members were chosen from each of the four schools on the basis of their accomplishments in their respective fields and their contributions to UT Arlington.



Dr. Ghazi B. Duwaji, assistant economics professor, has taught at both undergraduate and graduate levels at UT Arlington. Professor Duwaji has traveled extensively in the Middle East to study the economic development there.

Dr. Noel J. Everard, left, professor of engineering mechanics, is currently working to develop the graduate program in his department. He serves as a consultant in his field for seven organizations, including the U.S. Navy, and has published numerous papers. He meets here with Dr. Wendell H. Nedderman, Dean of Engineering.

Dr. Clayton Eichelberger of the English Department is recognized for his new biographical journal, American Literary Realism 1870-1910, which has won international acclaim. He is noted by students as an excellent teacher.

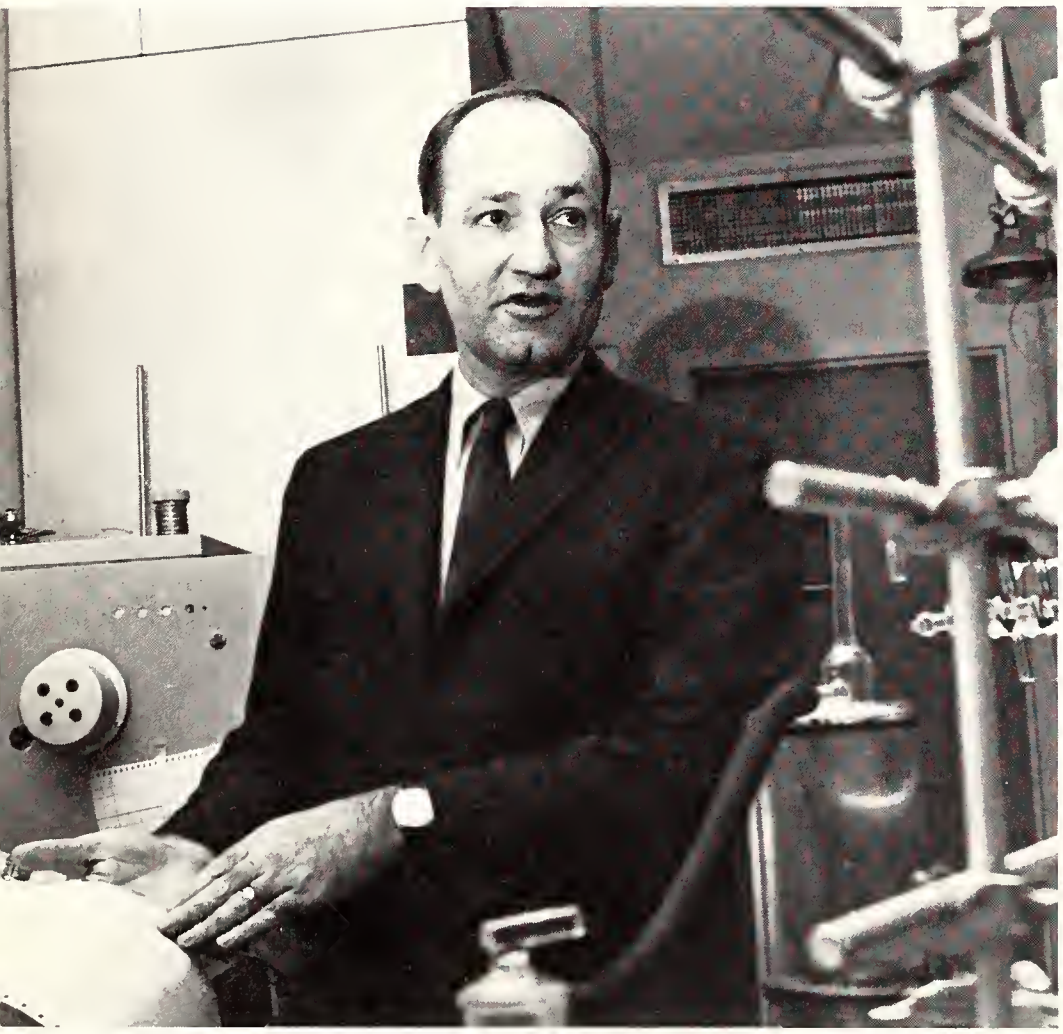
Professor Maurice Carlson of the English Department has founded and served as editor of the Arlington Quarterly, a literary journal of short stories, poems, and essays. Mr. Carlson is also active in the Dallas County Republican Party, serving as chairman.

Dr. Jack Fairchild of Aeropace Engineering has a reputation among his students as being an excellent classroom teacher. He has been a faculty sponsor for the Newman Club, the Rebel Flying Club, and the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics Student Chapter. He was also awarded a research grant.

Associate Dean in the School of Business Administration, Dr. Lee H. Smith devotes a major portion of his time to developing graduate and undergraduate management science programs and to coordination of curriculum with the junior college systems in both Dallas and Tarrant Counties. Dr. Smith has published several papers.

Professor J. D. Spradlin in Electrical Engineering was voted "Most Outstanding Professor in Electrical Engineering" in 1966 by more than 100 students and was named one of six "Most Outstanding Professors" on campus last year.

Professors Sacrifice Leisure Time

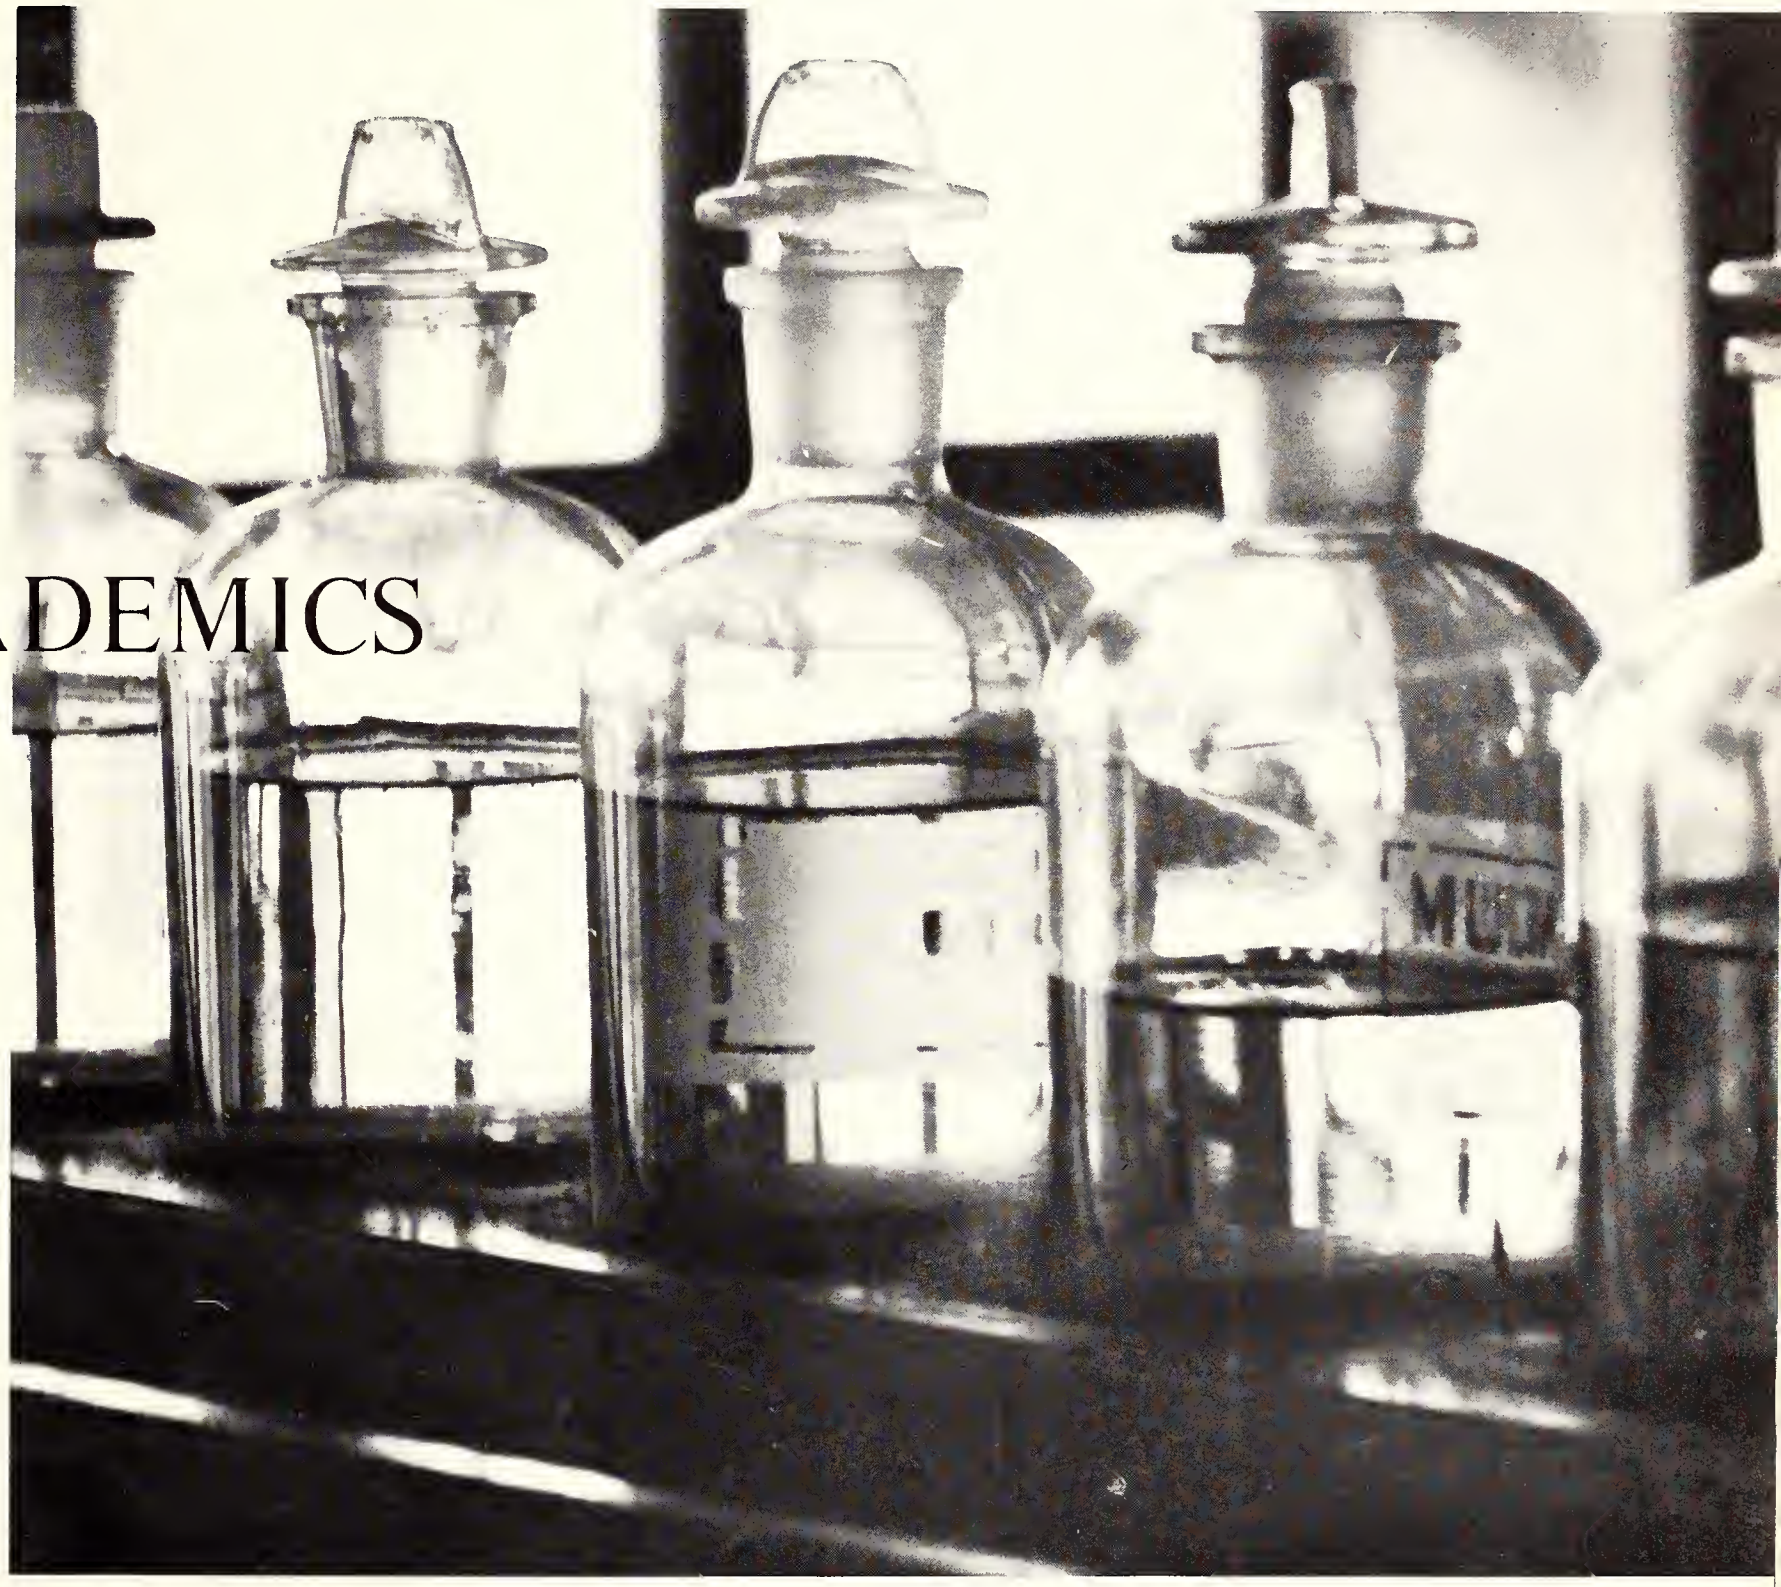


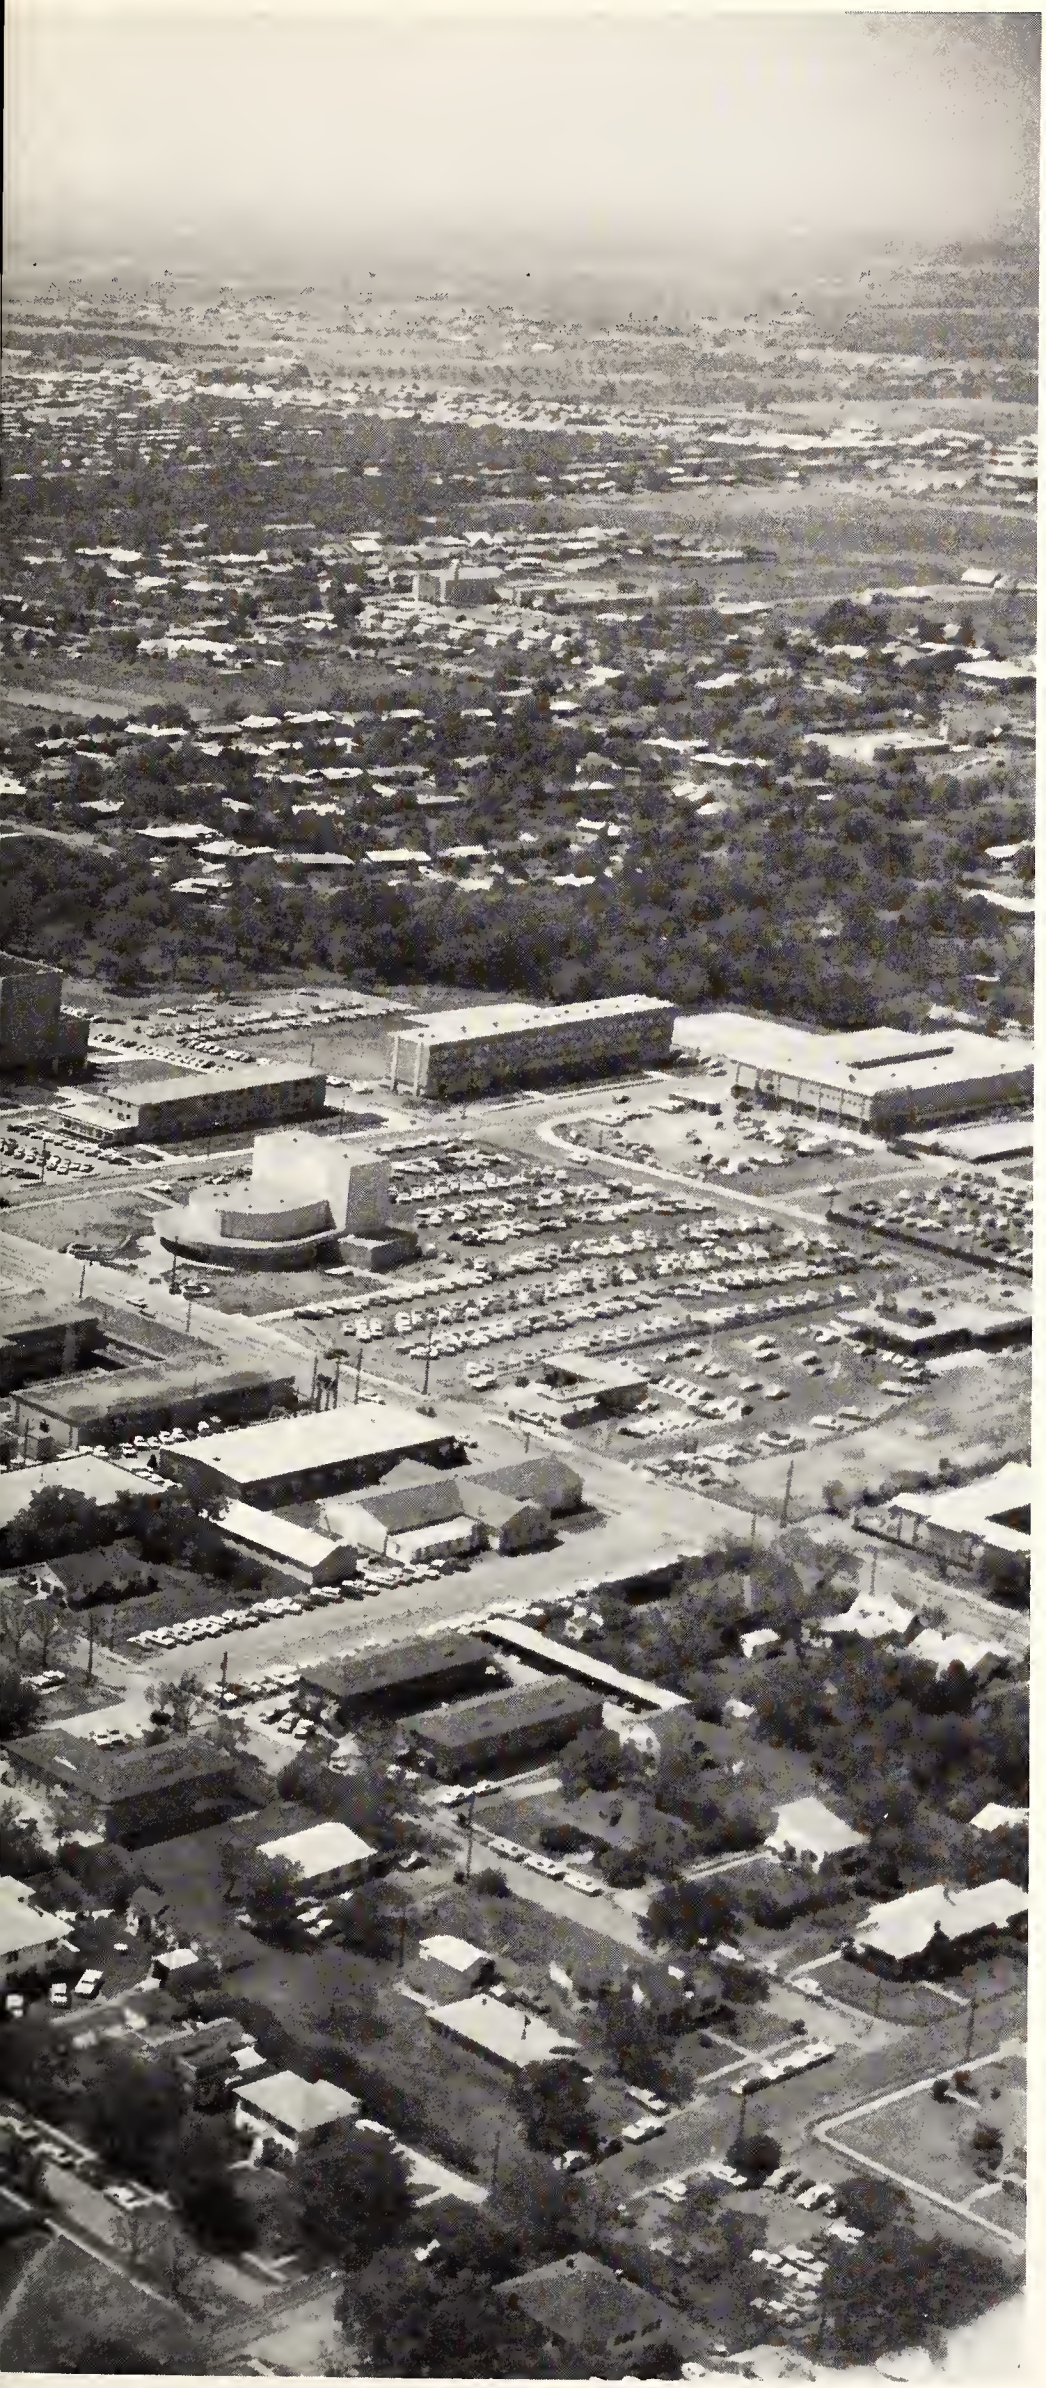
Representing the chemistry department, Dr. Robert Francis is recognized for his numerous publications resulting from research. He has been a member of the faculty since 1955 and has served on the Department Curriculum Committee at Arlington for several years.

Professor J. D. Boon, head of the geology department, has taught at UT Arlington since 1942. He has acted as President of the Athletic Conference and chairman of the Athletic Council. His geology research has resulted in numerous mapping projects.

Dr. Ralph Estes of the accounting department is presently preparing two books, one on international financial reporting and the other on the impact of computers on society. He was a delegate to the Ninth International Congress of Accountants in Paris last year, and is President of the Texas Civil Liberties Union in Ft. Worth.

ACADEMICS





UT Arlington Has Decade of Growth

Within ten years the University of Texas at Arlington has experienced tremendous expansion. The enrollment has more than doubled, reaching a record 11,873 last fall. The 180-member faculty has grown to 403, while the number holding doctorate degrees has increased from 20 to almost 200.

The campus facilities have also expanded to keep pace with these changes. Fewer than 60 acres composed the main campus in 1957, but now the college owns 160 acres and is continuing to grow. When two buildings already under construction are completed soon, the classroom space will have doubled since the school joined the UT System in April, 1965.

Meanwhile, the aptitude of the students and the quality of the education offered them at UT Arlington has risen. Senior college status was achieved in 1959, and a beginning graduate program is being developed. The students granted admission must meet stiffer entrance requirements than ever before, yet the enrollment continues to soar.

With a master plan that is only a year old, the institution's future is beginning to come into focus. The challenge now for UT Arlington is university status, not only in a borrowed name, but in its own right as well.

An ice storm in January temporarily stopped construction on Carlisle Hall, a faculty office building going up between Ransom Hall and Preston Hall. A walkway beneath will make the six-floor building eight stories high and the tallest structure on campus.

South of the library is the L-shaped Business-Life Sciences building, scheduled for completion by the fall of 1969.

The mathematics-foreign languages building, which opened in February, was named after the co-founders of Arlington College in 1895. The classroom section is called Trimble Hall, and the five-story office portion is known as Hammond Hall.

Four floors added to the library made the building the largest on campus. A lobby on the top floor, furnished with paintings and lounge furniture, is used for receptions and special events.

Buildings Reflect Campus Growth

Expansion upward and outward is rapidly changing the face of UT Arlington. An ever-increasing enrollment and faculty makes the addition of classroom and office space essential if the college is to accommodate even its present load.

Additions of four floors to the library and a second floor to the men's physical education building were completed in the fall. New names were also given certain campus buildings at this time. The auditorium, completed in 1965, was named Texas Hall, and the Administration Building was renamed Ransom Hall. Davis Hall, a men's dormitory, was called Brazos House, and a proposed administration building south of the auditorium was given the name Davis Hall.

A second proposed building is University Hall, to be located directly south of the quadrangle. Primarily a classroom-lecture complex, University Hall will also include a 400-seat auditorium. Office areas will accommodate approximately 200 faculty members plus a number of graduate and teaching assistants.

Engineering Gets EC Accreditation

Dr. W. H. Nedderman, professor of civil engineering and dean of the school of engineering, says that more students of engineering will now be attracted to UT Arlington, and more jobs will be open to graduates because of the newly accredited engineering program.

This year three departments of the school of engineering were accredited by the Engineer's Council of Professional Development. These were the civil, industrial, and mechanical departments; engineering having been accredited in 1965. The Technical Institute Division, a two-year program, has been accredited for a number of years. Aerospace engineering has not been accredited yet.

Engineering is important to UT Arlington. Since becoming a four year college in 1959, UT Arlington's School of Engineering has become known as one of the outstanding in the Southwest.

Graduate School Expands Curriculum

Vice-President for Research and Graduate Affairs and Acting Associate Dean of Graduate School is Dr. Wendell Nedderman, Dean of Engineering. Dean Nedderman serves in an ex officio capacity at the Graduate Assembly meetings where policy is created for the entire University of Texas system. Representing UT Arlington at the Graduate Assembly are Dr. A. E. Salis, electrical engineering, and Dr. George Wolfskill, history, who were elected from the Committee on Graduate Studies. The UT Arlington Committee on Graduate Studies, composed of the full membership of the graduate faculty, serves the Graduate School in the same manner the Faculty Council serves the undergraduate school.

Since September of 1966, masters programs in economics, electrical engineering, engineering mechanics, psychology, physics, and mathematics, as well as a joint program in radiological physics wtih the Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, have been offered at UT Arlington. Authorized by the final state legislature of 1967 were five more masters programs in history, English, business administration, biology, and chemistry. Six more degree programs were requested at the last meeting of the Coordinating Board.

Also recently authorized was the Graduate School of Social Work directed by Dr. F. G. Torgerson. Purchased to house the new Social Work school were the Ousley Junior High School buildings at the corner of Abram and Cooper streets. The buildings will be renovated and ready for use by the approximately fifty students that will be accepted in the fall of 1968.

ADMINISTRATION

Heading the UT Board of Regents is DR. HARRY RANSOM, CHANCELLOR.

UT Regents Head Expanding System

When Arlington State College joined the University of Texas System in March, 1966, the school acquired a new name and a new governing body. Chancellor Harry Ransom and nine regents, as heads of the UT System, now oversee the University of Texas at Arlington in addition to eight other branches.

The regents, who serve six-year staggered terms, must approve all major changes in curriculum and expenses. Meeting in committees, they consider such matters as money investment, construction of buildings, and medical school affairs.

Since DR. JACK R. WOOLF, PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT ARLINGTON, first came to the school eleven years ago, expansion and progress have doubled the enrollment, tripled the size of the campus, and tremendously advanced the academic standards.

As VICE-PRESIDENT FOR ACADEMIC AFFAIRS, DR. S. T. KEIM is responsible for the development of academic matters and facilities. In this capacity he handles curriculum, faculty, and direction of the library at UT Arlington.

New Vice-Presidents Aid President Woolf

B. C. BARNES, named VICE-PRESIDENT FOR FISCAL AFFAIRS, is UT Arlington's chief financial officer in charge of such matters as staff budgets and construction financing. His duties remain the same as last year's when he was director of business and finance.

An expanding graduate program and a vigorous participation in research are two indications of a progressive university. Serving as both VICE-PRESIDENT FOR RESEARCH AND GRADUATE AFFAIRS and ACTING ASSOCIATE DEAN FOR GRADUATE STUDIES, DR. WENDELL H. NEDDERMAN is the President's representative in implementing the graduate program and encouraging faculty research.

Four Deans Head Academic Schools

A university can satisfy its student's needs only with a capable faculty and an adequate program of study. Four academic deans, heading our Schools of Business Administration, Engineering, Liberal Arts, and Science, are entrusted with securing these pre-requisites for UT Arlington. By supervision and improvement of the personnel, curriculum, and budget within his department, each dean contributes to the preparedness of this university's students.

DR. CHARLES H. GREEN
DEAN OF LIBERAL ARTS

Administrators Operate Key Departments

MR. BOB STEPHENS, ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT, represents President Woolf as a liaison between UT Arlington and outside interests.

MR. A. L. von ROSENBERG, as BUSINESS MANAGER, oversees monetary transactions which pass through the fiscal office.

MR. WELDON BREWSTER, DEAN OF STUDENT ADMINISTRATION, heads a central information agency.

Within the offices of DR. WILLIAM KARRACKER, DIRECTOR OF TESTING AND COUNSELING, and FRANK GAULT, STUDENT COUNSELOR, students can secure educational and occupational guidance and information.

Registrars Handle Student Admission

Every student must occasionally contact the Registrar's Office — to be admitted, to secure a catalog and a class schedule, to apply for graduation, and to find answers for myriad questions. Head of the second-largest department on campus is ELWOOD PREISS, REGISTRAR AND DIRECTOR OF ADMISSIONS.

ASSISTANT REGISTRARS KENNETH THOMAS, DARWIN STEVENSON, and PAUL STRONG, who process admission applications and transcripts for over 11,500 students, work with RONALD PRINCE, promoted this year to ASSISTANT DIRECTOR OF ADMISSIONS.

Quiet refuge for weary souls and expanding treasure house for duty-bound scholars is the seven-floor library, tallest structure in Arlington.

Library Reflects Campus Growth

Four stories, three elevators, smoking lounges, and group study rooms were added to the library in an expansion program completed in the fall. Also new was an automated IBM charging system instituted in February for circulating books.

After a reshuffling of the interior, the first floor housed reserved materials, the second held reference items, and the third cataloged government documents and technological papers. The fourth floor became a depository for the records and manuscripts of Texas labor unions as a step toward eventually consolidating the labor archives of the Southwest. Periodicals were shifted to the fifth floor, and the top level was furnished with audio-visual aids, a projection room, and a lounge area. As the Registrar's office and the Data Processing Department joined classrooms in the basement area, the library building magnified its role as a center of campus activity.

MRS. MARY SWISHER, ASSOCIATE COLLEGE LIBRARIAN, and JOHN HUDSON, COLLEGE LIBRARIAN, inspect the library's card catalog system, which includes cross-listings from over 250,000 books.

Information Staff Coordinates News

Many know a school by the reputation of its athletes. To publicize the UT Arlington teams, WILLIAM BROWN, as DIRECTOR OF SPORTS INFORMATION, promotes all games, edits athletic brochures, and distributes sports releases.

Because UT Arlington is a prominent institution in the area, information about its progress is important to the public. Acting as liaison is KENNETH WHITT, INFORMATION AND PUBLICATIONS DIRECTOR, who handles news releases and publications for the college.

The annual catalogs and the UT Arlington Briefs are but two ways that the university is known in print. Direction of all publications is under RICHARD YANTIS, EDITOR OF OFFICIAL PUBLICATIONS. Here he talks with Billy Foster, Supervisor of Reproduction, about printing this year's 31,000 catalogs.

Business Administrators Maintain Records

EUGENT PRASEK, PURCHASING AGENT, arranges all purchases made by the UT Arlington departments.

Preparing a budget of almost twelve million dollars is the monumental task of JACK UTTERBACK, BUDGET AND REPORTS OFFICER, who also handles construction contracts and works with the Business Office on accounting procedures.

CARROLL SHEFFIELD, ASSISTANT BUSINESS MANAGER, oversees accounts.

Money is the concern of MRS. LOUISE CRIDER, BURSAR, for her office handles all fees, bills, rent, and student banking services.

NORMAN MINTER, DIRECTOR OF PERSONNEL, heads the office which assists with records for 1500 full-time and part-time college employees.

The department of MARVIN SANDERS, DATA PROCESSING MANAGER, handles the registration system for the Registrar and the accounting system for the Business Office in its service to other campus departments.

All affairs other than academic are the responsibility of EVERETT STRAHAN, DIRECTOR OF THE PHYSICAL PLANT, who oversees the construction and maintenance of campus facilities.

By preparing menus and managing personnel, MRS. HAZEL BURKS, FOOD SERVICES DIRECTOR, feeds thousands of hungry students a day in the student center cafeterias.

LARRY MINOR, RETAIL STORE MANAGER, buys textbooks, paperbacks, novelty items, and supplies for the Book Store and Exchange Store.

Officials Oversee Busy Campus Facilities

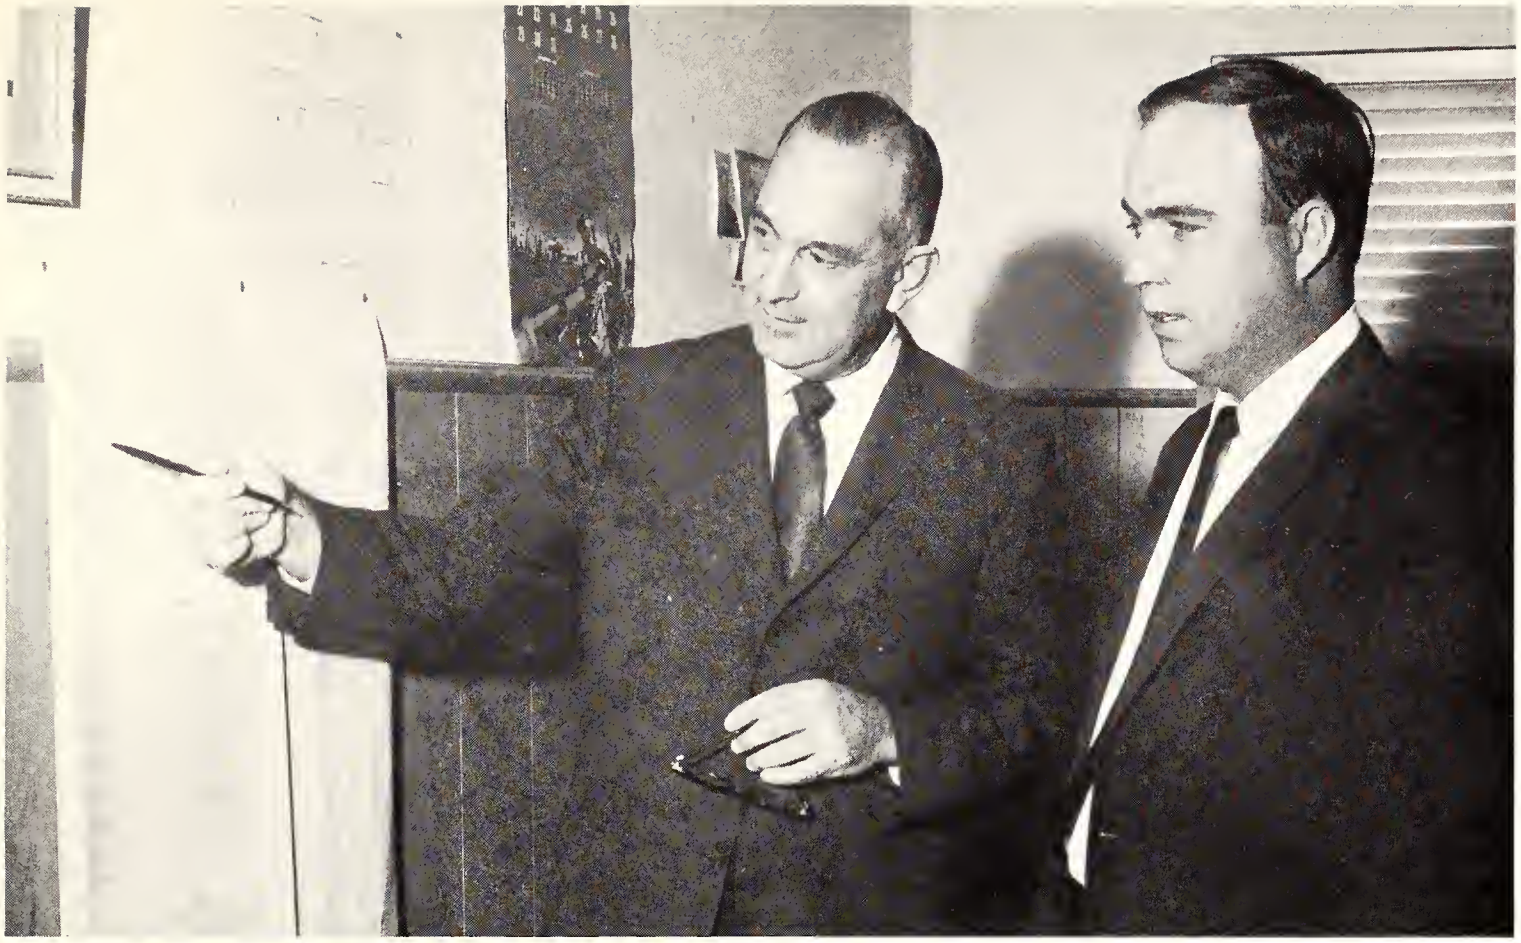
New Dean Heads Student Life Division

Three administrators form the nucleus of the Department of Student Life. Beginning his first year as Dean of Student Life is Charles McDowell, one of only five men who report directly to President Woolf. Besides his membership on campus committees, his responsibility extends to student activities, student publications, health services, housing programs, student conduct, placement and financial aid, and parking security.

Dr. Horace Gillespie, Dean of Men, provides non-academic guidance for men students, oversees campus housing, and coordinates disciplinary action.

As Dean of Women, Mrs. Nancy Thorpe works with sororities, counsels women students, advises the Panhellenic Council, and participates on campus boards.

CHARLES McDOWELL, DEAN OF STUDENT LIFE; MRS. NANCY THORPE, DEAN OF WOMEN; and DR. HORACE GILLESPIE, DEAN OF MEN, have offices in College Hall, a 40-year-old structure which was built as a dining hall, served as a library and a bookstore, and currently houses the music, ROTC, and Student Life departments.



MARION JACOB, DIRECTOR OF FINANCIAL AFFAIRS, and FRANK YATES, DIRECTOR OF PLACEMENT, act as liaisons for the Peace Corps and handle all scholarships, loans, grants, student employment, and placement for seniors.

The Inter-Fraternity Council is sponsored by KENT GARDNER, ASSISTANT DEAN OF STUDENT LIFE. He also works with student activities and organizations and oversees the budgets of the Office of the Dean of Student Life.

MRS. JUANITA TURNER, NURSING SERVICES SUPERVISOR, operates the Health Center to provide on-campus medical attention for 60,000 patients every year.

SECURITY CHIEF RUFUS TAYLOR heads 12 patrolmen who daily oversee the campus in three-wheeled scooters.

Officials Direct Student Life Activities

MRS. CAROLYN WADDELL, STUDENT ACTIVITIES ADVISOR, oversees campus activities and SAB.

As STUDENT PUBLICATIONS ADVISOR, ERNEST LEISTER is involved with the yearbook, Reveille, and the literary magazine, Arlington Review.

RESEARCH

Engineering Faculty Researches Phenomena

JACK E. FAIRCHILD, professor in the aerospace and mechanical engineering department, is researching aerodynamics and flight mechanics. He is obtaining experimental data from a model wing in a low speed wind tunnel. Working with a $20,000 grant from the National Science Foundation, Dr. Fairchild will evaluate existing theories and perhaps attempt to develop a new theory about maximum lift capabilities of a wing.

CHARLES C. BLACKWELL, assistant professor of aerospace and mechanical engineering, is currently researching optimal control, automatic control, and applied variational calculus. He has previously worked on applied optimal control for the Vought Aeronautics Division of LTV, and research so far has determined the optimal control strategy for a number of systems. The method used in recent study is the maximum principle of Pontryagin.

DR. JOHN W. McCONNELL, assistant professor in electrical engineering, did his PhD dissertation research at Stanford University on Parametric Frequency Dividers. He is presently studying the important characteristics of nonlinear capacitance frequency dividers, including frequency and band width limitations. His method is primarily experimental, using several different circuit configuration and semiconductor diodes as the nonlinear capacitance. Dr. McConnell says, "These circuits show promise for use in frequency divisions at very high frequencies." A master's candidate, Johnnie Stegemoller, is working with him to complete his thesis in this area.

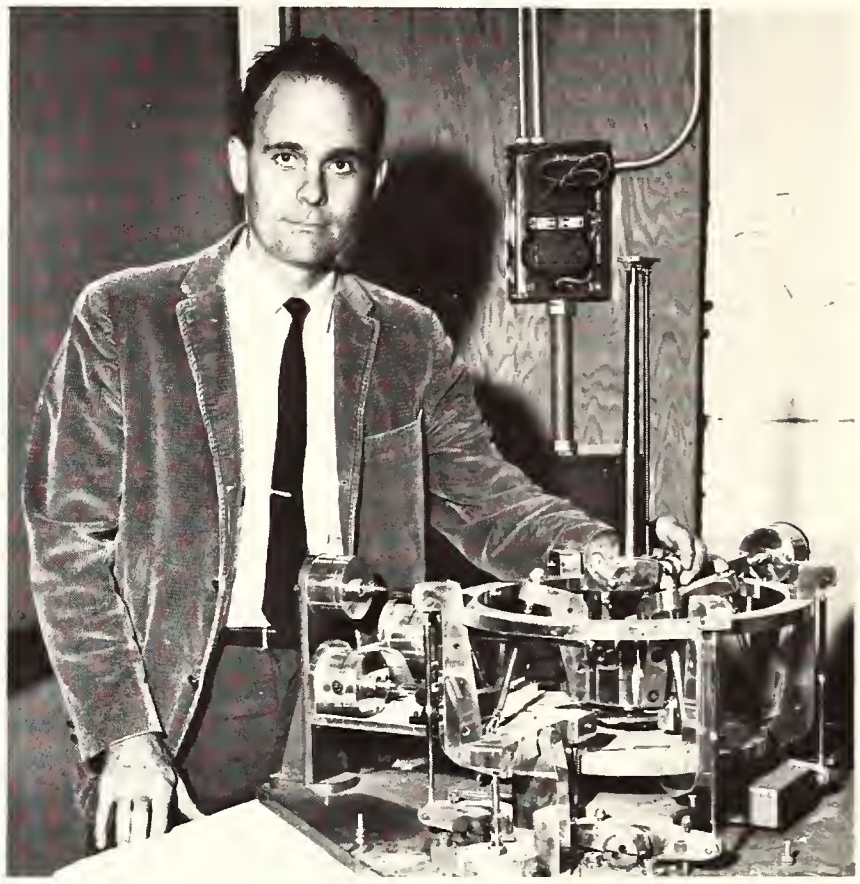
AEROSPACE AND MECHANICAL ENGINEERING



DR. FLOYD L. CASH, professor in the electrical engineering department, is working on the determination of ionospheric characteristics. His study in electro-magnetics has previously included theoretical studies of the properties of the atmosphere at microwave frequencies. Dr. Cash's study at this time involves the determination of the total ion content along a vertical path through the ionosphere. Information gained from this study will make possible the determination of variations in ionospheric characteristics as a function of time, and the determination of ionospheric horizonal homogeneity. The electromagnetic signals being recorded in this experimental study are transmitted from the Explorer 22 and Explorer 27 satellites.

DURYL M. BAILEY, assistant professor of civil engineering, is working with structures and foundations. Methods of study include models, Kotter's Equation, and an empirical structural analysis. Further research, with the help of student assistants, will hopefully predict the ultimate collapse load of a cavity in which the soil is subjected to a footing load.

DR. JOHN J. HAYNES, as head of the department of civil engineering, is continuing his work in traffic engineering, and is presently doing research on digital computer simulation of a signalized traffic intersection. A periodic scanning technique of basic "car-following" traffic flow theses is being used in order to utilize the small IBM 1620 computer. A film on computer output has been made, but much more field study is needed for verification of the project. The results should prove helpful in the problems of delays to motorists at signalized intersections.

DR. A. HAJI-SHEIKH, assistant professor of aerospace and mechanical engineering, has four years of research behind him in the study of heat transfer. A National Science Foundation grant of $12,381 is sponsoring his study of film cooling of a flat plate. He is using experimental measurement and analytical calculations plus the UT Arlington wind tunnel and a sophisticated hot-wire anemometer system.

Instructors Research Communications

JOE L. GOODWIN, speech instructor, is currently studying a neoteric philosophy and theory of audio and visual image control, expediting the communication process as executed by WBAP-TV in Fort Worth. He is working on these psychological and sociological problems by the use of historical, descriptive, and experimental methods and has been doing so since 1958.

DAVID E. GRONER, instructor in the speech department, is working to improve oral communication in interview situations. With questionnaires, interviews, and article analyses, he is also researching general semantics and debate. Concerning "An Analysis of the Job Interview Situation as it Takes Place on the College Campus," Mr. Groner says that "Implications and applications are almost limitless."

Laboratory Spawns Scientific Research

DR. RUSSELL E. CLEMONS, instructor in the geology department, has a $27,000 research grant from the National Science Foundation and the Instituto Geografico Nacional de Guatemala. His study, titled "Geology of the Altos Cuchmatanes, Northwestern Guatemala," is determining the geologic history and tectonic evolution of this particular mountain range in Central America. Dr. Clemons spent nine months mapping in Guatemala for his PhD dissertation. The preliminary results of this research will be reported in the summer of 1968 at the fifth Carribbean Geological Conference in the Virgin Islands.

DR. A. RICHARD MITCHELL, assistant professor in the math department, is continuing his research on infinite abelian groups. A doctor's dissertation and three publications have assisted him in having a deeper understanding of direct sums of closed groups.

DR. C. C. HALL
BIOLOGY

DR. J. D. POWELL
GEOLOGY

DR. J. D. POWELL, assistant professor in the geology department, is involved in aerial geology and paleontology. His research, aided by three years of field work, is a redescription of certain fossils and a mapping distribution of rock strata at the surface. By using direct field observation and aerial photography, the economic value of maps and the whereabouts of special ceramic and brick clays will be shown. UT Arlington and the Bureau of Economic Geology are sponsoring Dr. Powell's research.

DR. C. C. HALL, associate professor of biology, has been given a National Science Foundation grant of $12,000. It is enabling him to spend two summers at the University of Michigan Biological Station to study social parasitism in the closed system of gall mites. He is attempting to find out why gall mites are parasitized by fungus-feeding mites. During the summer of 1967 collections were put together, host plants identified, and slide mounts made to help identify the mites involved. Dr. Hall hopes that this research will give better control over some pest species and a more complete understanding of life cycles of these mites.

DR. G. L. JOHNSON, assistant professor in the chemistry department, is continuing his study of the rapid measurement of very small corrosion rates which occur in neutral salt solutions near room temperature. His method is spectral determination of trace amounts of metal ions resulting from electrochemical decomposition of metal samples exposed to slightly corrosive environments. By using an atomic absorption spectrophotometer which is sensitive to one part per 100,000,000 for most metals, Dr. Johnson has successfully measured iron corrosion in dilute sodium chloride solution at room temperature. He hopes to be able to measure or predict corrosion, however slight, of metal implants within the human body.

DR. L. M. DIANA
PHYSICS
Peter Sakowski, Graduate Student

DR. T. J. COGDELL
CHEMISTRY

DR. L. M. DIANA, associate professor in the physics department, worked in India in the summer of 1966 educating physicists. Another field of interest is his search for positrons in decay of chlorine-36. By observing positrons, he is seeking to demonstrate that they did not emanate from an impurity. Dr. Diana's method includes using very pure compound for making chlorine-36, which is a source in nuclear reactors. He feels that this work will contribute to a better understanding of the nucleus.

DR. T. J. COGDELL, assistant professor in the chemistry department, along with a student doing senior research and three graduates, are working with carbonium ions from cyclic amines. By determining how much contraction of ring size occurs, they can correlate it with the conformation of the amine. Dr. Cogdell uses a very sensitive and accurate gas chromatograph acquired last year. They have synthesized five of the required amines and begun to make some of the products. Dr. Cogdell says that "Understanding the reactions of positive carbon ions is basic to many industrial processes."

DR. HOWARD W. JOYNER, head of the art department, is engaged in augmenting UT Arlington's color slide collection for the art history section of his department. Student assistants aid him in cataloguing and labeling. By travelling here and abroad, Dr. Joyner has collected over 10,000 slides of architecture, paintings, sculpture, and minor arts.

STEPHEN T. RASCOE, assistant professor in the art department, is searching for ways to combine abstract and symbolic elements to create a powerful and readily identifiable pictorial impact. Approximately ten years' background of gallery shows and museum competitions, along with continuous production of paintings, have enabled Mr. Rascoe to continue his research. His paintings have been displayed at the Dallas Museum and the Nye Galleries in Dallas.

Departments Foster Studies by Faculty

DR. J. C. WOFFORD, assistant professor in the business administration department, is conducting research on the factors of managerial behavior and their effects. Establishing the framework for this study was a theoretical paper published in the December, 1967, issue of Personnel Psychology. With Dr. Wofford's method, employes are able to rate their supervisors' success. He also feels that the study should be replicated with managers measuring their own managerial success.

DR. KATHRYN HOPKINS, assistant professor in the education department, is studying English curricula and learning theories. She is comparing traditional English methodology and the new programs described by Project English of the US Office of Education and the National Council of Teachers of English. Her method includes a questionnaire survey of college English activities of students from differing high schools methodologies. Dr. Hopkins feels that her research gives added importance of creative and exciting teaching for potential English teachers.

DR. GEORGE GREEN

HISTORY

DR. WILMON H. DROZE, assistant professor in the history department, is conducting research on the history of conservation of resources. His research, titled "New Deal Shelterbelt Project," is concerned with the historical value of tree-planting on the Great Plains in the 1930's. He read a paper on the subject for the W. P. Webb Lectures at UT Arlington in the spring of 1967. Dr. Droze hopes that when his work is published, it will focus attention upon the need for plains forestry.

DR. MARTIN H. HALL, assistant professor in the history department, is researching a project on complete annotated muster rolls of the army of New Mexico. His previous work in this area includes two books about the Civil War. This project includes finding adequate and accurate source materials concerning total personnel, casualties, and biographical backgrounds. This research on the Civil War and Reconstruction is sponsored by the Liberal Arts Department.

STEPHEN B. OATES, instructor in the history department, is writing John Brown: A Study in Religious Fanaticism, his fourth book. His other books and 23 articles in his field of specialization serve as background for his research in the pychology of the religious fanatic. Professor Oates hopes to do a book in the future on fanaticism and the coming of the American Civil War. A portion of his current book was published in the Winter, 1967, issue of the Southwest Review.

ALLAN SAX, instructor in the government department, is researching social change and desegregation problems. Mr. Sax is attacking the problem of how a community is able to undertake considerable social change and maintain its cohesiveness.

DR. HOWARD LACKMAN and DR. GEORGE GREEN of the history department are undertaking a project to establish UT Arlington as a labor research center. With a $1700 grant they have already assembled the largest labor collection in Texas. Oral history tapes and interviews with the United Auto Workers in Dallas have assisted them in following the development of and resistance to organized labor in Texas. Dr. Green gave a lecture to the Texas AFL-CIO on labor history of the state. This collection will fill every room on the fourth floor of the library. They hope that many masters theses and term papers can come out of the Texas Labor Collection.

Professors Research Literature, Language

AILSEY FORESTER, instructor in the English department, is involved in a personal project of discovering obscure novels of writers who rejected them as unsuitable for their purposes or their talent. Mr. Forester then compares the material's style, intent, and content with the same elements in the field in which the author is a master, such as Swinburne's novels compared to his poetic style. "It is fun to see that even when a genius is floundering, his genius still is apparent." says Mr. Forester.

DR. COTHBURN O'NEAL, professor in the English department, is using senior English majors in a study of inductive grammar of the written English. He has used the inductive grammar in three classes and a National Defense Educational Act Institute. Dr. O'Neal says, "So far the grammar has added both speed and depth to language learning.

DR. MARGARET LEE WILEY, professor of English, is researching a history of the concept of literary genius as an analytical study of an idea, with classical and continental backgrounds. She has previously published articles and edited literary correspondence and has added to the bibliography of Shakespeare idolatry with her discoveries. She also brought to light and published unknown letters and a photograph of an American poet. Dr. Wiley hopes, by her research, to better the understanding of the creative mind, thus leading to methods of criticism and better devices for the teaching of literature and composition.

DR. ROBERT McDOWELL, assistant professor in the English department, is researching African literature in English. His PhD dissertation, entitled "The African-English Novel," laid the background for his continuing research. Dr. McDowell is comparing and contrasting novels and autobiographies of African Negro writers. He states that "The greatest difficulty in researching African materials is the non-availability of books. Few U. S. libraries have good African collections."

DR. ALVIN D. JETT, associate professor in the foreign language department, is interested in computer assisted instruction. He is attacking the problem of programing a complete set of instructions so that students may internalize the principles of general sematics and alter their behavior, using the computer for self-instruction. Dr Jett is using a new IBM 1803 computer installed for educational research on the Texas Christian University Campus. He says that "Computer assisted instruction will be a half-billion-dollar-a-year activity by 1970. The need for sophisticated self-instruction in numerous fields is obvious."

DR. JAMES L. WYATT, head of the foreign language department, is engaged in the machine analysis of verb and noun phrases in Portuguese and Spanish. He has spent several years dealing with the machine generation of sentences in English and Portuguese. Input sentences are examined by a computer for overt grammatical features; statistical distribution and sematics are then relied on to help solve ambiguities.

J. D. WILMETH, assistant professor of foreign languages, is continuing his drive to increase enrollment in Russian at UT Arlington. His campaign of posters, banners, newspaper coverage, and free clinics for high school students has increased enrollment from 16 students in 1962 to 216 students in 1967. Colonel Wilmeth says that for every 200 Russians studying English, only one American is studying Russian. He eventually hopes to establish a Soviet Institute at UT Arlington.

CLASSES

On the steps I sit alone and watch the people pass — the pixie-faced sorority pledge,
the engineer with slide rule,
the bearded, soulful hippie.
Moving, meeting, pausing, passing,
all converge and intermingle shapes of their identities that day.
Someone laughs, another chatters,
someone calls a name.
Someone hurries, looking grim,
still another dawdles at the door.
And as I sit alone
to watch the people pass,
a friend with love and ginger-brown eyes comes to sit beside me.

Sometimes with friends or when we walk alone . . .

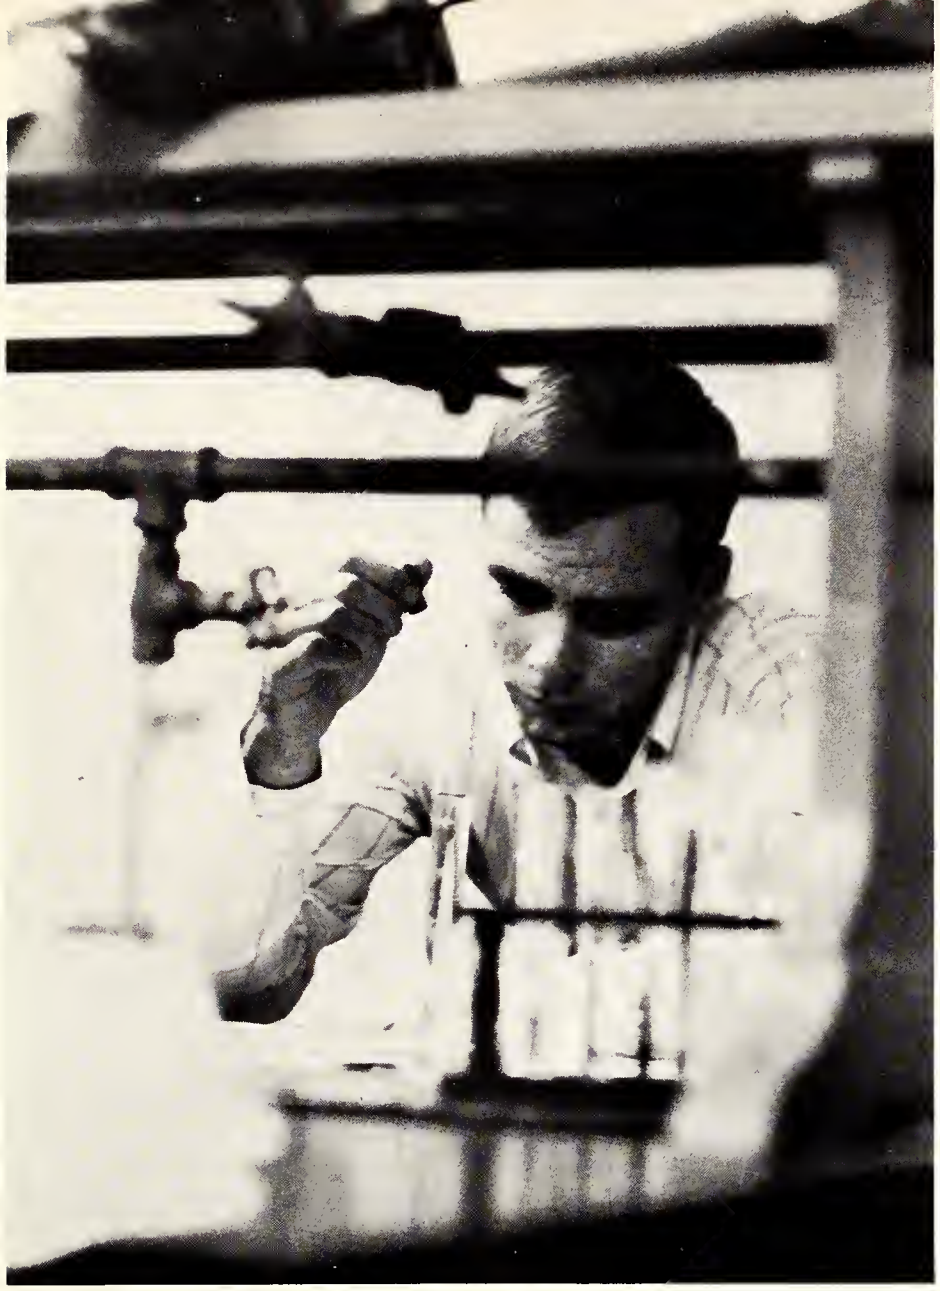
we seek frames
for our existence —

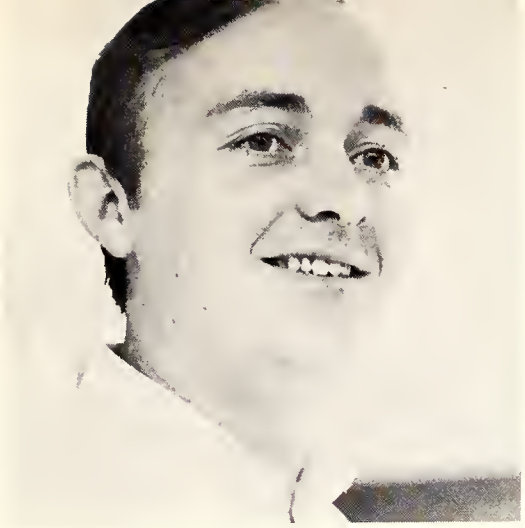


answers and reasons for believing.

We need someone to care—
a hand to hold,
a love to share.

RECORD

Phi Mu



We come to know
the faces of our friends.

WHAT
DRAWS

Reaching out
we meet each day with wonder,
with a laugh
with a hope . . .

. . . with a memory.
